Up the Army, By Jupiter!

At the summer trial of Col. John Nickerson, who was protesting the Secretary of Defense decision to eliminate the Army from the long-range rocket field. Werner von Braun, the former German V2 expert, who has pioneered the Army's ballistic work, told reporters:

"If all you want is to shoot a ball up into the sky and let it go round in an orbit, we could have done that long ago."

There doesn't seem to be much doubt about it. The Army could have done that.

Why was the Army stopped?

The basic reason was that the Air Force had more influence in the office of the Secretary of Defense. Here we come to the meat in the defense coconut—inter-service rivalry.

The Army, in the process of radical reorganization to enable troops to function in atomic wars and on battlefields under nuclear attack, needed long-range ballistic missiles. The Air Force offered no objection to the Army developing short range and intermediate missiles. This was merely a replacement of field artillery, and the heavier caliber stuff always employed by the Army.

Fighting Troops

But General James Gavin and his thinkers argued that in an atomic, or nuclear era, the fighting troops had to be more like the cavalry of Nathan Bedford Forrest. They had to be trained in relatively small, compact units, possessing terrific fire power. And, most important of all, they had to be mobile. The old days of mass assembly of troops, ships and equipment are gone, along with the tactics and weapons of by-gone wars. Such mobile concentrations of fire power had to be moved in to hit—and run—to strike again at some other point.

This being the case, such units of "cavalry," moving by planes, helicopters, or being dropped as paratroopers, could not wait on support long-range bombing by the Air Force. The need for a swift strike, a fast get-away and a blow at some distant point, had to be self contained in all its power to be effective.

So, the Army wanted long-range missiles which could be used as long-range artillery. They planned to use it to destroy—and to "disinfect" with atomic radiation. It would be quite impossible to attain effective, necessary meshing of Air Force bombing. The mobile striking force had to do the whole job.

Air Force Job

But long-range bombing has always been the job of the Air Force. And in the second great war it did a magnificent job in which men and officers established a tradition of courage and sacrifice unsurpassed. So, the Air Force fought back. It was all right for the Army to have missiles—plenty of them. But the Air Force insisted they be the shorter range type. The Air Force had never cared much for close air support work anyhow. It is apt to be messy in that such support often drops bombs on its own troops.

The Army lost the argument. The Air Force was given the go-ahead and the Navy, quite unwillingly, took over production of the Vanguard. This was not a weapon. It was, as the military men said, merely a rocket which would go up and fly around beeping at you. The military held the only urgency was combat missiles.

There were two points of view between the Army and Air Force. The Army built the Jupiter, an almost-custom-made rocket which fired. Their argument was to get one that would work and then tool for production. The Air Force, with the 2,000-mile Thor and the ICBM "Atlas," started with blueprints, seeking something which would go immediately into production. They have had the most failures.

The Navy had to have, it decided, solid fuels rather than liquid because the latter didn't handle well on shipboard.

About all that has happened now is that the Army has won a great propaganda victory. It will use the Jupiter, a battle weapon, to get a Sputnik up into the air.

For the military people the real urgency still is weapons that will kill the enemy.

High Court Voids Ban On Movie

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Supreme Court today dealt movie censors another blow.

Citing one of its own decisions which said "sex and obscenity are not synonymous," the court struck down a ban by the Chicago Police Censor Board on "The Game of Love," a French film.

It did so unanimously and without hearing the customary oral arguments. The action reversed a decision of the U. S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The Supreme Court's brief unsigned opinion cited a decision issued last June 24 which upheld federal and state laws banning obscene literature, which it defined as "material which deals with sex in a manner appealing to the prurient interest."

However, Justice Brennan, who spoke for the court then, added this comment: "The portrayal of sex, e. g., in art, literature and scientific works, is not sufficient reason to deny material the constitutional protection of freedom of speech and press."

The court made no mention of various past decisions curbing movie censors, including one in 1955 which struck down a Kansas film censorship law.

In another unanimous unsigned opinion, the court set aside the death sentence of a wife slayer on the ground the prosecutor withheld evidence favorable to the defendant.

The court said Alvaro Alcorta, 28, of San Antonio, who stabbed

City Is Ordered Named in Bus Segregation Suit

A federal judge Tuesday ordered the City of Atlanta added to a list of defendants in a lawsuit attacking the constitutionality of city bus segregation.

U.S. District Judge Frank A. Hooper also postponed rulings on defense motions to dismiss the suit until the original complaint could be amended to add the city as a defendant and the city's attorneys could file answers to the charges.

The suit, brought by two Atlanta Negro ministers, now names the Georgia Public Service Commission, the Atlanta Transit Co., Atlanta's Mayor William B. Hartsfield and Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins.

Jet Zips 6,350 Miles Without a Refueling

By VERN HAUGLAND

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 12 (AP)—Gen. Curtis Lemay showed off the long reach of the U.S. Air Force today by flying a big jet Stratotanker 6,350 miles in 13 hours without stopping or refueling.

The hop from Westover (Mass.) Air Force Base to Buenos Aires' Ezeica Field set a new mark in distance and speed for an officially recorded nonstop, non-refueling jet flight.

Gen. Lemay, an expert in strategic air power who recently became vice chief of staff of the U.S. Air Force, sat in the pilot's seat of the KC135 tanker for about eight hours of the 485-mile-an-hour flight.

"It was just another cross-country flight, very pleasant," said Lemay.

SOVIETS TRAIL

So far as known, Soviet Russia has no long-range plane comparable to the KC135 or the B52 bomber.

The Soviet's TU104 jet airliner has flown 5,570 miles from Moscow to New Jersey in 18 hours—but with three refueling stops.

The previously accepted record for nonstop, nonrefueling jet flight was set in 1955 by a French Mistral which flew 1,448 miles.

The Air Force's global B52 bomber has made longer, officially unrecorded flights than the Mistral and possibly has flown longer nonstop than the Lemay plane.

IN 13 HOURS

The four-engine swept-wing KC135 took off from Westover at 4:48 p.m. yesterday and touched down here at 5:50 a.m. U.S. officials timed the flight as 13 hours, three minutes — from the time the plane crossed scoring points after taking off and before landing.

Lemay estimated the distance at 6,350 miles, and explained that he had made a dog leg out over the Atlantic in order to stretch the distance. Most of the flight was at 35,000 feet and speeds up to 550 miles per hour were attained. Strong crosswinds up to 144 miles per hour were encountered.

He is expected to fly back tomorrow on a direct course to the United States, and possibly set a speedier record on the return.

The KC135 tanker, costing between two and three million dollars, is a global partner of the B52 bomber.

It is designed to carry a full load of fuel for thirsty bombers, as well as its own fuel. It can be adapted to carry up to 100 troops, or cargo.

Later this week a B52 nonstop mission from Maine to Buenos Aires and return, with refueling from KC135s off Florida on the flights south and north, is planned.

President, Top Aides Hold Talks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (UP)—President Eisenhower held a round of top-level talks today on the military, budget and economic programs he will seek from Congress next year to meet Russia's growing scientific challenge.

The President, clearing the deck for his second "chins up" address to the nation tomorrow night, launched the day with an 8 a.m. (EST) conference on preliminary plans for the new foreign aid program.

He later presided over a record-sized meeting of the policy-shaping National Security Council, took time out to see British Labor Leader Aneurin Bevan and then held a late afternoon session with his top economic advisers.

Bevan, prospective foreign minister if the Labor Party returns to power, suggested that the time might be ripe for an accommodation with the Soviet Union.

Bevan, in a 50-minute discussion, contended that since the free and the Communist worlds now possess, for the first time, the capability of "mutual mass destruction" there might be a better basis for agreement.

Bevan would not disclose the President's reaction to his advocacy of a "summit" meeting.

The White House said the President would leave the capital by plane shortly after noon tomorrow for Oklahoma City where he is scheduled to deliver his second televised speech on science and security tomorrow night (10:30 p.m. EST).

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said today's meeting of the Security Council was not an emergency.

But Hagerty conceded that the meeting, which overflowed the cabinet room and had to be switched to the White House broadcast room, was the largest of its kind ever held as far as he knew.

Ike To Get Adlai's Aid On NATO

Democrat Takes Role of Consultant

By W. H. LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Adlai E. Stevenson has accepted the role of "consultant" in shaping the administration program for the forthcoming heads-of-government meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization powers in Paris.

This was announced by the White House today along with the fact that Stevenson had turned down a suggestion he work directly with a staff group drafting proposals for submission to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles.

KEPT AWARE

Stevenson instead will be kept informed of policy proposals as they are developing and will be asked to give his comments orally or in writing before final decisions are taken.

Whether such consultation would involve direct face-to-face conferences between the President and the Democrat he twice defeated for the presidency was not announced.

The foreign policy discussions thus far have been between Dulles and Stevenson. In their talks, some consideration has been given to a possibility that Stevenson might tour NATO capitals in the not-distant future as a kind of traveling ambassador demonstrating the bipartisan character of basic foreign policy. But no decision has been reached.

The news of Stevenson's role came out in response to questions about published news stories.

HAGERTY'S REVERSAL

The first statement by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, was that Stevenson had turned down an administration proposal that he participate in preparing "the American program" for presentation at Paris. He said the former Democratic nominee had offered to comment publicly on the proposals after they had been prepared and presented at Paris, and that the ad-

Lockheed's A-Lab Opens Next Year

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Lockheed's nuclear aircraft research project at Dawsonville will go into operation a year from now and will be working full speed by the end of 1958.

Lockheed has just let the bid for the major building at Dawsonville, which will house the nuclear reactor, and has opened bids for the remaining facilities.

A. C. Kotchian, Lockheed vice president and general manager of the Georgia Division, said Tuesday night that all outlays are within budget limits and no holdup in schedule is foreseen. (A cutback was ordered last January by the Air Force.)

Kotchian, introducing Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), an atomic energy expert, who addressed the Lockheed Management Club, said the Dawsonville facility will have more capacity than the Air Force can utilize in the development of an Air Force to be powered by atomic energy and that atomic reactor design work for the Atomic Energy Commission is planned.

He said he hopes that the Georgia Division can participate in the expansion of atomic energy into peacetime uses, including de-

Army Moon Expected in February

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—The Army is expected to launch a scientific earth satellite early next year, probably in February.

Both the Defense department and scientific groups were rushing preparations for launching satellites with ballistic missile test vehicles developed by the Army.

The White House decision last week to bring the Army into the satellite program is expected to accelerate as well as enlarge the nation's program to place scientific satellites into space during the current international geophysical year.

EARLY LAUNCHING

The Defense department estimate is that the Army, with its Jupiter-C ballistic test missile, will be ready to launch its first satellite in the first few months of next year.

The Navy, with its Project Vanguard, is scheduled to launch its first full-scale scientific satellite in March. While the Defense department is attempting deliberately to avoid a race between the two services in launching satellites, it is conceded that the Army may be ready a few weeks in advance of the Navy.

SCIENTIST PLEASED

Dr. Richard W. Porter, chairman of the earth satellite panel of the U.S. National Committee for the International Geophysical Year, said in an interview that he was "very happy" at the decision to bring the Army into the satellite program because it would increase the number of satellites to be launched and offer an opportunity for firing a satellite "at an earlier date."

The Navy next month is scheduled to launch a miniature satellite as part of its test program of the satellite launching rocket. This, however, will be primarily a test satellite, and not as large or as fully instrumented as the 20-inch, 12½ pound scientific satellite to be launched in March.

Gen. Thomas Power

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP) — The boss of the U.S. Strategic Air Command warned the Soviet Union today his bombers around the world are loaded with nuclear weapons and ready to strike swiftly in case of attack.

Gen. Thomas Power told a news conference SAC mounted an alert Oct. 1, that there always are some of the great bombers in the air and they are "not carrying swords or bows and arrows."

ONE-THIRD OF FORCE

Power said one-third of his command would soon be in this state of alert.

"The planes are on the runways loaded with nuclear bombs," the general said. "The crews sleep nearby. We are increasing the number of planes on the alert to one-third of our effectives. The planes can be off in 15 minutes. The alert began Oct. 1."

The general struck at the recent claim of Soviet Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev that the intercontinental ballistic missile had made warplanes obsolete.

Power, who flew here from his U.S. headquarters for the Parliamentary Assembly this morning, heard Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash) propose that NATO set up a missile training center.

PLAN BACKED

The plan won prompt endorsement from Gen. Cortlandt Van R. Schuyler, chief of staff of Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe, who said "we have been trying to get (this) for six months."

A high NATO source disclosed that this year the United States embarked on a program of supplying its NATO allies with missiles such as the Nike, the Honest John, and the Corporal.

He said all NATO members soon would have them. It was learned that Germany and Italy now have personnel training in the United States in the use of these weapons.

Jackson also called for a complete reappraisal of U.S. policy concerning exchanging atomic

Garcia Gets Big Lead in Philippines

MANILA, Wed., Nov. 13 (UP)—Carlos P. Garcia, pro-American incumbent, swept to a commanding lead over sugar baron Jose Yulo today as returns poured in from the out-lying provinces in a bitterly-fought Philippine presidential election.

After a see-saw battle which saw the lead change hands five times during the night, the Nationalista leader tonight moved to a 27,000-vote lead.

LATEST TALLY

The latest tally showed the 61-year-old President, who took over the reins of government when the late Ramon Magsaysay was killed in a plane crash last March, with 181,108 votes to Yulo's 153,996. Progressive Manuel Manahan was a strong third with 128,182; Sen. Claro Recto, opponent of "U.S. domination," was fourth with 80,000 and Antonio Quirino fifth with 10,350.

It appeared certain that Garcia, if he wins, will be saddled with a vice president from the opposition party.

INDEPENDENT VOTE

The Philippines elect their presidents and vice presidents independently and liberal candidate Diosdado Macapagal was scoring a landslide victory for the No. 2 spot in the administration.

In the latest count, Macapagal was leading Jose Laurel Jr., Garcia's running mate, 216,706 to 89,005 and his victory seemed assured.

If the race goes according to the present trends, it will be the first time in Philippine history that the two top posts have been split between parties.

A record number of Filipinos voted in Tuesday's elections despite the onslaught of typhoon Kit which roared across the islands with winds as high as 140 miles an hour.

GM May Repay $17 Million to U.S., Says Critic

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La) today said General Motors has offered to repay the Air Force more than half of $17,459,200 which the congressman said was obtained by misrepresentation and excess profits.

Hebert, chairman of the House Armed Services subcommittee for special investigations, termed the offer a refusal to cash in on a misunderstanding.

The Louisiana congressman added that a large part of General Motors' offer of $9,701,458 was conditional. It depended on a refusal of the Justice Department to press charges of fraud against the firm, he said.

Bandit Grabs $3,000 At Crowded Market

A small rosy-cheeked bandit robbed a North Highland avenue supermarket Tuesday evening while dozens of customers shopped, unaware anything was wrong.

First estimates placed the loss from the A&P store at 752 North Highland Ave., NE, at $3,000. However, store officials said the loss probably would not run that high.

Lt. R. F. Jordan and Detective J. H. Barnes said the gunman, working in an "extremely leisurely fashion," held up the office and then two check-out stands.

Jordan and Barnes said they were given this account:

Sauntering up to the office where Boyd Millican of 4287 Lawrenceville Rd., the assistant manager, and Mrs. Norinne Bailey, of 1378 South Candler Rd., Decatur, head cashier, were working, the bandit showed a revolver and handed over a sack.

Officers said the gunman ordered Mrs. Bailey and Millican to put their hands on the counter.

Walking over to where Mrs. Marilyn Duke of 1337 DuPont Ave., a cashier, was working at a cash register, he exhibited the gun and ordered: "Put the money in the sack."

He turned to another where Mrs. Velma Reeves of 124 Poplar Cir., Decatur, was working and repeated the order.

His sack filled with currency, the small man walked out.

Constitution and Journal Resume Normal Editions After Stoppage

The Atlanta Constitution and The Atlanta Journal resumed normal publication Tuesday when pressmen voted to return to work.

The pressmen's international union opposed the stoppage by its members and flew its top leaders to Atlanta Monday night to urge the members to go back to work. Seven pressmen subsequently returned to their jobs in time to print an eight-page edition of The Constitution Tuesday morning.

Then shortly after noon Tuesday, the pressmen held a general membership vote following a union meeting. They voted to return to work. Full crews thereupon reported on the job in time to print the 42-page Tuesday afternoon Journal, although the paper was late. Normal publication resumed with this morning's Constitution.

Jack Tarver, vice president and general manager of the Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., expressed regret to Journal and Constitution subscribers for Monday's interruption in publication, the first in years.

The pressmen's temporary work stoppage resulted from a picket line placed around the newspaper building by the International Mailers Union. The mailers still were picketing the building Tuesday but normal publication was possible when the pressmen returned to work. Other unions had reported to their jobs without interruption.

Tarver said the mailers were asked to leave the premises Saturday night on grounds they were engaging in a sitdown strike during hours when the newspapers were trying to get out Sunday editions.

He said the mailers had staged slowdowns and then the sitdown in an effort to get more manpower than their contract provides for in the mailroom.

Without waiting for a company answer, Tarver said, the mailers disrupted production Saturday night and were asked to leave so that supervisory person-

Comintern Revival Is Considered

Khrushchev Eyes Reins on All Reds

By SYDNEY GRUSON

WARSAW, Nov. 12—Word has reached here that one of the major subjects under discussion now in Moscow is the reestablishment of some form of organized central direction of the international Communist movement.

All the major figures on the Communist world, with the exception of Yugoslavia's Tito, have been gathered in Moscow for the past week in connection with the Bolshevik revolution anniversary celebrations. It is the greatest conclave of Communist chieftains ever held.

CONTROLLED GLIMPSE

At receptions and official meetings the Western world has been permitted a glimpse of the conclave, but a glimpse carefully controlled by the Russians. From information available here, it is clear that the gathering has not been beer and skittles or, in East European terms, caviar and Vodka.

Diplomats here have heard of heavy Soviet pressure to recreate an organization on the lines of the old Communist International (Comintern) or the more recent Communist Information Bureau (Cominform). The former was dissolved early in World War II as a gesture to Russia's Western allies and the latter early in 1956, primarily as a sop to Yugoslavia.

Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party leader, has been trying all this year to rebind Moscow's reins on other Communist parties. First loosened by Yugoslavia's expulsion from the Cominform in 1948, the reins were unravelled further by the upheavals in Hungary and Poland last year.

NO DETAILS

No one here pretends to know the details of the Soviet Union's latest proposals on how centralized direction should be reestablished. But the diplomats' information is that Yugoslavia, as might have been expected after its experiences with the Cominform, has asked to be counted out of any new organization.

Palmiro Togliatti, the Italian Communist leader, was said here to have expressed doubts over the wisdom of re-asserting Moscow's direction of the International Communist movement.

But the situation is more difficult for the two other major parties known to oppose the idea—the Polish and Chinese. Both Poland and Communist China are going through severe economic difficulties for whose solution they must increasingly turn to the Soviet Union.

CHINESE POSITION

The Chinese position, it is believed here, will be vital in the final decision. It is conceded that the Chinese, because of their economic difficulties, are not now in as strong a position to say no as when Khrushchev previously made similar proposals.

It was reliably reported last January that the Russians wanted the Cominform re-established much as it was before. They submitted as a possible alternative the idea of a new international Communist newspaper on the lines of "for a lasting peace for a peoples democracy" which was dissolved along with the Cominform.

The Chinese, Italian and Polish parties objected then. Both ideas were dropped, but a few months later Tvorba, the Czechoslovak Communist party's weekly, was writing that "roughly the same contact" as existed during the Cominform's lifetime should be promoted again among Communist parties throughout the world.

NOT FIRST TIME

It was not the first time that the Czech party had called Khruschev's signals. Shortly afterwards, reporters in East Europe began hearing of a Soviet proposal for party representatives to be stationed in East European capitals in addition to the regular ambassadors of the diplomatic service.

Again the proposal was cold-shouldered by the Italian, Polish and Chinese parties.

Khrushchev's third revival of the idea at this time makes sense to observers here. They see him, for the moment at least, as undisputed master of the Kremlin, itching to make himself undisputed leader of the world Communist movement.

Evolution Blamed for Neuroses

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 12 (UP)—The evolutionary march which deprived mankind of his ancestral tail may have left him susceptible to a host of nervous disorders, the Southern Medical Assn., was told today.

Dr. Mason Trupp, a Tampa neurologist, said he has tested his theory on 175 nervously disturbed patients by cutting loose the normally rigid end of the spinal cord.

This small part of the body is the vestigial remnant of the tail once possessed by man's remote ancestors.

Dr. Trupp said the patients were suffering from "various disturbances of the nervous system which were uninfluenced by prior medical and surgical treatments." He reported 90 per cent of those he treated obtained "satisfactory relief."

His theory is that present day fixation of the organ which once was a movable tail sometimes has a bad effect on the spinal cord and may cause paralysis of parts of the brain.

Under certain circumstances, he suggested, the stresses arising from fixation of the tail-like organ result in "structural and functional disorganization of the nervous system."

A group of research workers from the family study unit of the Tulane Medical School, New Orleans, reported tranquilizating drugs appear valuable in some cases in treating children with problems of behavior, stuttering and bed wetting.

Periled 6 Land On Antarctic Ice

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand, Nov. 12 (UP)—A Navy R4D ski plane with six men aboard landed safely on one engine today on the Ross ice shelf near Operation Deep Freeze headquarters at McMurdo, a message from the Antarctic said.

The twin-engine transport developed engine trouble en route to McMurdo from Little America, the American station some 500 miles east of McMurdo across the Ross Sea.

The Navy message said Pilot Lt. Cmdr. Harvey G. Speed, of Muskegon, Mich., landed the plane safely and that none of the six persons aboard was injured.

Labor Official Fought Teamsters And Was Murdered, Senators Told

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (UP)—Senate investigators were told today that a Teamsters Union official was murdered in 1952 after bucking efforts by a rival Teamsters local to organize garbage haulers in New York.

A dramatic story of murder, blunt threats, pressure tactics against businessmen and mystery fires was unfolded as the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee began an inquiry into New York's garbage industry.

GANGSTER ELEMENTS

The committee's announced goal: To show that gangster elements convened with some labor union officials to take over the 50-million-dollar-a-year business of hauling trash from 122,000 businesses and half a million homes.

Testimony about the unsolved slaying of John Acropolis, president of Teamsters Local 456 in Westchester County, was given by Ed Doyle of Yonkers. Doyle succeeded Acropolis as head of the local.

The witness testified that both he and Acropolis were threatened several times in the three weeks before Acropolis was shot to death.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) asked if Doyle himself feared violence.

DEATH AS CERTAIN

"You got to die some time, senator," Doyle replied. "You can't live forever."

Doyle said that Acropolis, described by associates as tough but honest, fought efforts by Teamsters in the country.

The witness said Local 27 was a New York City outfit that had no claim to jurisdiction over garbage cartmen in Westchester, an area north of Manhattan.

He said that three weeks before Acropolis was slain, he heard threats made against the union leader by Joe Parisi and Bernie Adelstein of the rival Teamsters local.

LUCIANO ASSOCIATE

Committee investigators testified that Parisi, who was head of Local 27, was a former associate of gangsters Lucky Luciano and Louis (Lepke) Buchalter. The latter was executed as mastermind of the old Murder, Inc., gang.

Doyle testified that Parisi told him and Acropolis:

"I've got a bad heart. I don't want to argue with you. There are other ways of taking care of you."

And Doyle said Adelstein told Acropolis, "Don't think you're that tough we can't take care of you."

A week later, Doyle said, he got a warning himself from Tom Disalvo, an agent of a local of the Building Service Employes Union. Disalvo called him two weeks before the slaying of Acropolis, Doyle said, and told him, "Four of youse guys are going to die."

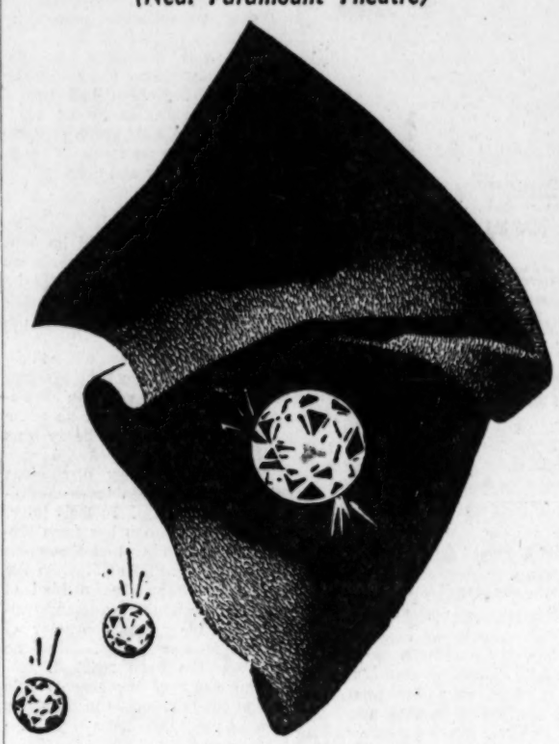

"How many died as a result of these threats?" asked McClellan.

"One that I know of," Doyle replied. "Acropolis."

Acropolis was shot down in his apartment on Aug. 27, 1952. No one was ever arrested in connection with the crime.

Lockheed Atom Lab To Start Work in '58

velopment of atomic-powered commercial aircraft.

Sources in the aircraft and atomic energy fields have put the cost of the Dawsonville project at about $15 million, with an eventual potential outlay of $50 million.

Rep. Cole said in an interview before his speech that nuclear-powered aircraft able to circle the globe many times without refueling will be developed within the next five years, a feat the Russians could be first to accomplish.

Cole, a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy since its inception in 1946, said the Communists have clearly demonstrated scientific potentials that make it possible for them to beat America in developing an atom-powered plane.

Nonetheless, he declared, "I am convinced" that the peaceful application of atomic energy is "destined to be the keystone of international accord in our time."

Cole is resigning from Congress Dec. 1 to become first director-general of the International Atomic Energy Agency now setting up headquarters in Vienna, Austria, to oversee worldwide development of peaceful atomic energy uses.

Cole told the Lockheed managerial personnel that "the whole question of where and how fast our atomic program should go will undoubtedly be a key issue in the Congress when it reconvenes next January."

Noting that some "well-intentioned . . . but confused" people have proposed a "full-scale kilowatt race" in the development of atomic reactors and plants by the United States, he proposed a number of steps "that should be taken between now" and January to assure full and complete discussion.

These included:

1. Preparation by the Atomic Energy Commission "as a matter of high priority" of a clear statement of the over-all and specific overseas objectives that a stronger or expanded U.S. nuclear power development program should meet.

2. Joint committee appointment of a small, permanent, non-political advisory panel to review AEC proposals and to make its own recommendations.

3. Recommendation by the AEC of a formula of federal subsidies for both public- and private sponsored atomic development projects.

500 Hunting Boy, 3, Lost in Griffin Woods

Constitution State News Service

GRIFFIN, Nov. 12—A 500-man posse late Tuesday was combing a wooded area near here in search of a 3½-year-old boy who disappeared from his home shortly before dark.

Sheriff's deputies, state patrolmen, Cival Air patrolmen and volunteer searchers joined forces to look for Henry Gold Jr., after the boy was reported missing from his home just outside Griffin.

His father, Dr. Henry Gold, said the boy was last seen playing in the yard late Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Gold, a Griffin dentist, said his son may have wandered into a dense wooded area near the Gold home.

Spaulding County Sheriff Joe Burson said bloodhounds were being used in an effort to find the boy.

Bandit Grabs $3,253, Cashier Grabs Bandit

LOST CREEK, W.Va., Nov. 12 (AP) — An armed bandit robbed the Harrison County Bank of Lost Creek of $3,253 today — then was chased and captured on foot by assistant cashier David H. Nutter.

State police said Nutter set off the burglar alarm, and when the bandit fled, grabbed a revolver and set out after him.

When Nutter caught up, the bandit surrendered.

State Police Cpl. W. L. Pike said Winford Coleman Starkey, 29, of Clarksburg, who was taken to the country jail, would be charged with armed robbery.

Wide-eyed wonderland

When is Christmas? Calendars all over the world paint it red - as - holly - berries and proclaim it December 25th. But to us, Christmas begins when the stars come out in the children's eyes. And that magic day will be this Friday, November 15th, when the old-time, all-time star of Christmas slides down our chimney and ascends his throne in Big Top Toyland Third Floor. This jolly old Saint in the merry red suit is Father Christmas, Kris Kringle, Saint Nicholas, Jule-Mann (that's Norwegian) and Santa Claus all rolled into one. He'll be in his Ice Castle, transplanted straight from the North Pole, every day until Christmas Eve to listen to your children's most secret, whispered wishes. Bring them in to see Santa's arrival at 9:30 a.m. Friday. Take them through the wide-eyed wonderland of Davison's biggest and most fascinating Toyland that stretches far as the eye can see. Treat them to rides on the miniature Carousel, the Drive-it-yourself Auto Rides, the Tubs-of-Fun Whirlo (only 10c a ride). Let them shake hands with the laughing Clowns, 10-feet tall; meet the Biggest Tiger in the Jungle; canter away on the lifesize (make believe) Shetland Pony; fly to the moon on the Satellite Launcher in our Science Centre; admire the panorama of dolls waltzing through a French village. Watch the enchantment on the children's faces as they drink in all the wondrous sights and sounds. Even the veriest Scrooge will know that even though December 25th is 46 days away, the magic of Christmas is here . . . and now . . . in Davison's marvelous, magical Big Top Toyland.

Treat? or Trick!

A bunch of lucky? (depending on your viewpoint) High School students are having their Biology and eating it too! Last Tuesday their teacher dropped by Davison's Epicure Shop and ordered six cans of our deluxe Fried Grasshoppers. "My class is dissecting them," she explained with a merry twinkle, "and I'm going to serve these as an after-class treat." Later we took an informal Grasshopper poll to find out how the treat(?) went over. Comments ranged from "Not bad" and "Better than dissecting 'em" to "They ought to serve 'em in the Cafeteria!" A lanky crew-cut remarked somewhat apprehensively, "Next week we'll be working on bees. Do you suppose Davison's has them, too?" Indeed Davison's does, Son, the very finest French fried Bumble bee Wings—not to mention frogs, ants, fried silkworms, Zaza insects, Rooster Combs, Caterpillars and even Giraffe Lips, in case your teacher is interested. All delicious, too, according to the stout-hearted gourmets who have tried them. So chin up, students. It isn't every biology class that gets epicurology thrown in for good measure.

Mideast Tensions Will Grow Worse

The renewed clamor in Syria against the Turks and the campaign of hate and vilification in both Syria and Egypt against Jordan's King Hussein mean our troubles in the Middle East are far from over.

Calling Hussein a traitor to the Arabs, the Egyptian radio and newspapers have gone so far as to call for his assassination. There is a determined campaign aimed at his ouster and toward leading Jordan down the path of Syria and Egypt.

Looking behind the scenes, it is possible to see the agile hand of Nikita Khrushchev. Having disposed of Zhukov, the Russian strong man again turns toward the Middle East where he is gambling at taking over the region through subversion and possibly war.

If Hussein goes in Jordan, that country, too, will fall into the Soviet orbit and Israel will be in grave danger. The Communist buildup of Arab military strength is aimed at Israel. Taking advantage of Arab nationalism and Arab hatred of the Israelis, the Russians hope to emerge as the great friend and benefactor of the Arab countries.

The game Moscow is playing is dangerous and in dead earnest. If the Middle East is plunged into war, the Communists would use it as an excuse to move "volunteers" into the area for the final takeover—including the oil resources without which Western Europe cannot survive.

The Middle East thus remains the major field of contest in the cold war. The pressure there and continued efforts to divide the United States from its allies will increase during the months ahead.

Communities Must Help Themselves Get Ahead

Water shortages suffered by many Georgia communities should drive home a lesson to many others that are dangerously close to facing the same situation.

Equally important is the question of what a municipality, after being caught in a water emergency, does to avoid a reoccurrence. Will it spend money in makeshift methods or invest in a modern waterworks system capable of meeting future demands that accompany industrial growth?

The Royston Record, in a front-page editorial following a water shortage in that northeast Georgia community, has cited its City Council's failure to provide for a referendum on a proposed issue of water revenue certificates as advocated by Acting Mayor A. V. Brown.

Calling for citizens to bring pressure on City Council to let people decide for themselves, the editorial urges: "Let's stop just getting by and really plan for the future. Let's get off our seats and get some action now!"

What the Royston Record is saying applies to many other communities in the state. All municipalities have certain obligations they must face. There are jobs they must shoulder themselves without financial support from their neighbors or handouts from elsewhere. The degree to which they accept their own responsibilities determines the difference between the development of thriving cities and deterioration into ghost towns.

Thousands of Baptists throughout Georgia tomorrow will share the rare thrill of becoming parents of a new town.

As the life span lengthens and the ranks of the retired increase, there is a growing need for projects of this type.

The Baptists have rendered a real service in a field where constructive action has lagged. The warm response accorded the new village should inspire other groups to launch additional undertakings to enrich the lives of the aged.

Grand Jury Questions Lunacy Trial Methods

The September-October Fulton County Grand Jury seriously questioned the present method in the county of trying and committing lunacy and incompetent cases to state institutions.

Under the present method, the jury pointed out, three members serve on a committee to decide such cases. One is a lawyer recommended by the Bar Association and assigned by the county attorney; the other two are members of the medical profession, selected by Judge Eugene Gunby, the ordinary.

The jury pointed out there is some criticism of the type of medical examination as well as of the medical members of the committee itself. Too often, the presentment said, the medical members are retired doctors who have not been actively practicing for some time.

The jury suggests, correctly we think, that an effort be made by the ordinary's office to work out an arrangement with the Fulton County Medical Society to provide competent members of the medical profession to serve on this trial committee.

Surely this field of mental health deserves more than casual attention. With our Milledgeville State Hospital and other institutions becoming more and more crowded, certainly more thorough examinations are in order before committing doubtful cases to them.

Florida's Gov. Collins Talks Plainly, Clearly

Without question, Gov. LeRoy Collins of Florida is the most articulate of Southern governors.

He is not afraid to speak the truth. He did this in addressing Southern publishers in annual convention at Boca Raton, Fla.

"The disease of racial intolerance," he told them, "is the greatest roadblock in the way of Southern progress. . . . We can either miss our greatest opportunity and go blindly down a road of turmoil and frustration or we can seize the opportunity to clear the emotional atmosphere," he said. He added this further warning:

"We can tear ourselves to pieces in civil strife and become, in effect, a ward of the rest of the nation or we can join hands and provide an example of human relationships and government responsibility for the rest of the nation to follow."

He spoke plainly to the publishers, some of whom previously had expressed themselves in shop-talk meetings as concerned because some young Americans did not seem to be concerned with the American way as set out by the first 10 amendments to our Constitution—the Bill of Rights, particularly that setting forth the rights of a free press.

Some explanation for that lack of interest, if it exists, as we are not at all sure it does, just might conceivably be explained by another aspect of Gov. Collins' talk.

"Newspapers," he said, "have the opportunity and responsibility to develop and defend a public atmosphere free of racial fears and bigotry." He had seen, said Gov. Collins, "how such an atmosphere of racial fears and feelings could infect a Legislature." Such an atmosphere, he said with undeniable truth, can paralyze a state and halt all progress because it allows the demagogues "to drag ordinarily sound-thinking legislators down to their level."

If there are some young people showing lack of interest in the guarantees of freedom and a free press, it is just barely possible they may feel so because they have not seen that freedom and responsibility put to much use.

Trees Can Compensate For Row Crop Losses

The Georgia Forestry Commission this year received requests for 319 million seedlings, a record number which was about 147 million more than the state's five nurseries produced. The new Morgan Nursery, with the largest production capacity in the Southeast, will go into operation next year and help considerably in meeting the surging demand.

The unprecedented number of orders for seedlings is further evidence that landowners are awakening to the financial opportunities which forests offer.

Tree farming is far less expensive than growing of row crops. A ready market is assured and Soil Bank benefits for converting acreage into trees are more liberal than for many other phases of agriculture.

Prospects of row crops recovering in the immediate future from their present doldrums appear slim. But the outlook is bright for timber and forestry products. Here is a field that is unlikely to become smothered in government restrictions.

Birmingham News

A mathematics professor in Europe has developed a new interplanetary "language" which he says should enable human beings of this planet to discourse with beings who may be on other planets, that is if they have somewhat the same mental and educational capacities we have. (Make no wisecracks at this point.)

The language is called "lincos," for a reason we do not know, and it is based on mathematical symbols, apparently because this is considered the most abstract science. As we get it, the idea is that even on Mars it is to be presumed that one and one make two.

Human advance into new knowledge has been going so fast of late we aren't sure that one and one will always make two.

Georgia Tech Student Says Red Sputniks Are No Laughing Matter for Free World

Atlanta — It seems to me, from what I see and hear on television and from what I read in the newspapers, that the general opinion of the people in the world concerning the Russian satellite is one that should make the Communists very happy and confident of themselves and their program to conquer the free world.

The people of the world seem to regard the two Sputniks as something that should be made fun of and not taken seriously. Does it not stand to reason that if the Russians have a rocket that will enable them to put a satellite 1,000 miles out in space they have one that can rain death and destruction on this free land of ours?

How did the Russian men of science and technology achieve this milestone of history? It was only through an intensified program of research and engineering that the first space satellite was launched. Does the United States or any other country of the free world have such a research program? To my knowledge, the answer to this question is emphatically no!

After the people of the free world, the people of the United States in particular, get through making a big joke out of the Russians' space satellite, maybe they will think of some of the important aspects of this new thing which is upon us.

Hartsfield Is Hailed As Excellent Mayor

Atlanta—In view of the outstanding recognition that has been bestowed upon Mayor William B. Hartsfield and considering his leadership and his record as mayor in which he has made his contribution in a dedicated service, it seems to me that instead of having him faced with another election he should be honored by the city for services rendered.

It's too bad that those out of the city and out of the state recognize his outstanding ability as evidenced by the Fortune magazine and by his recent election as the head of the American Mayors' Assn., and here in our own Metropolitan Atlanta we take him for granted.

Those of us who are interested in good government will have to help him meet the challenge with our support. The record of our mayor is outstanding. It should be not only a duty but a high privilege to give him our support in every way.

Has Supreme Court Right Interpretation?

Atlanta—As I read Ralph McGill's column recently I suddenly perceived a great similarity between the current Cashword Puzzle contest and the controversy concerning the Constitution of the United States.

There are the clues right there for all to see, and in most instances there seem to be two logical answers, but only one will make the puzzle correct. Thousands of people have been wrong in their interpretation of the clues and only those who interpret them the same as Cashword Carl are correct.

His answers have been accepted by all the contestants because he is the judge.

Likewise our Constitution has been interpreted by thousands of different people and seemingly there are two correct interpretations. But the Supreme Court has the right interpretation and we should consider any deviation from their interpretation wrong.

Fowler Integration Scheme Smacks of Vengeance Plot

If as though we did not already have enough race troubles, Alpha Fowler, of Douglasville, Ga., is heading a move to relocate some Southern Negro families in white neighborhoods of Northern cities.

Mr. Fowler, of course, is a strong segregationist and doesn't mean for the movement to be interpreted as a white-black integration plan, but of course that is exactly what it is going to result in and Negroes of the North are accepting it with great joy. In fact, some Harlem Negroes in New York City have sent word that they will cooperate with Mr. Fowler to the extent that they will "adopt" in their Negro communities several of what they term "Georgia ignorant white people."

It is quite obvious that Mr. Fowler's plan has backfired on him and the matter should be dropped where it is. Northern people are not trying to mix races in Southern neighborhoods and we certainly see no reason to try to integrate the Northern neighborhoods. We're supposed to be against integration whether in the Southern United States or Northern United States.

We hope that Mr. Fowler's plan doesn't mean that we must elect him governor.

Mainland Beckons To China's Chiang

Some Notes on a Journey to the Far Pacific—Outside of Don the Beachcomber's restaurant in Honolulu is a gigantic banyan tree. Up in the tree, 40 feet above the ground, is a tree house, built of woven mats and thatch, like the houses of the Pacific islanders. Don rents this tree house to tourists for $37 an evening. To husbands and wives, that is, who want, as Don says, "to recapture in a Pacific island setting the wonderful romantic moments of their honeymoon."

The happy couple, after crossing Don's palm with the necessary silver, are given a key to the wire gate at the foot of the ladder leading up the tree. They lock themselves in. By a pulley arrangement Don sends up the rum drinks for which his restaurant is famed. These, he says, along with the big Hawaiian moon, help to set the romantic mood. When, by pushing a buzzer, the tree-dwellers signal that no more rum is needed, he sends up a picnic basket laden with roast chicken done in the Hawaiian style, tropical fruits, etc. Afterwards, up goes coffee, liqueurs or brandy, cigars for the gentleman (flowers for the lady are waiting her in the house and a hi-fi player pipes island melodies into the house).

After dinner the romance seekers are on their own. They can stay in the tree all night if they wish.

In Taipeh, Formosa, there is one of the most luxurious modern hotels to be found anywhere in the Far East. Visitors on official business, however, are not put up here. They stay as the guests of Generalissimo Chiang's government at a huge palace built 50 years ago for the emperor of Japan. Arriving here, I found on my bed a large white envelope inscribed with Chinese characters. Not being able to read it, I was going to throw it away, when the room boy picked it up and began to show signs of excitement.

It was, he said, "command to dine this evening with the President and Madame Chiang."

At the appointed hour I showed up.

The Generalissimo, now 71, looked ageless though his moustache has grown gray and bushy. A slender, fragile, erect little man who looks as if he is carved out of old and yellowed ivory, he wore the plain mustard-color tunic of his soldiering days, without decorations. Speaking through an interpreter he asked blunt and forthright questions about world politics, making funny little clicking noises in his throat as he waited for an answer. Madame Chiang whiles away her years in exile with a new interest, painting in the style of the ancient Chinese masters.

Her faith in her husband's cause is still unshaken. At the end of the evening, in a quiet moment, I asked her: "Do you still hope to go back to the mainland?"

"It is more than hope," she said. "I have a sure and certain faith that we will go back again."

Count of Blessings Will Pierce Gloom

A young man came to me with the complaint that life had not been good to him. After listening to the recital of his woes, I felt sure that he had had more than his portion of troubles and difficulties. "The cards have always been stacked against me," he said. "I didn't ask to be born. And I got none of the breaks others always get. I am about ready to call it quits."

What would you say to such a person? He was in his middle twenties, a time when life should glow with promise and hope. But he was ready to call it quits. I recalled the words of a wise and devoted counsellor of youth, Dr. Henry Ward Beecher, who said, "God asks no man whether he will accept life; that is not the choice. You must take it; the only choice is how."

I sought by a number of questions to draw from his confused and doubting mind some bases for gratitude. He had good health, a precious thing which is denied to many. He had a good mind, something which in this hectic generation is certainly to be prized. He had a good job and as much security in his employment as any man could hope for. He had a loyal, faithful wife who longed above all else to help and encourage him.

"Have you ever felt a sense of gratitude for these things?" I asked. He agreed to join with me in a brief prayer of thanksgiving for what he had. We prayed that God might make us aware of our blessings and complain less for those blessings which are denied us.

I think that kind of prayer should be central in our lives. It is a good remedy for low spirits and an antidote for self-pity. It gives to our lives a positive perspective. Who of us cannot remember when we have lamented our poor lot in life? Who of us have not complained because we have not received the blessings we thought we deserved? And who of us have not bewailed that we were ever born? Why, when we asked these questions, did we too not want to call it quits? Was it not that we discerned amid the gloom that shrouded our lives those rays of light which a sense of gratitude always reveals?

A visitor to America made the observation that Americans, who have the most of everything and should be as happy as kings, are actually the most dissatisfied of all of the earth's children. I think his comment is an exaggeration, but I also think that his judgment has some basis in truth. Of all the earth's children, we do seem most blessed. Yet we are not contented. Sometimes we feel downright miserable. Always we want more of everything.

I expect that none of us will really appreciate our lives, our privileges, our opportunities, all that a benevolent Providence has bestowed upon us, until we learn to measure our lives by the blessings which are ours.

Ingenious Stassen Ups Anchor Again

WASHINGTON—Harold Stassen, the man with nine political lives, is ready for another big gamble. He has finally made the decision, recently rumored, to seek the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania in next May's primaries.

If he can win it and get elected next November, he would become a candidate for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination for which Vice President Richard M. Nixon now is the leading candidate.

Nixon's California colleague, Sen. William F. Knowland, is a possible entrant, too, if he can get elected governor of California next November.

A miracle for Harold Stassen? Right. It would take practically a series of them at every stage of the new Stassen plan which President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser has evolved. Yet it does not seem insuperable to him—as it does to practically everybody else—that he should try to become governor of another state.

He failed last year at an impossible job, which he started too late, to block Vice President Nixon's renomination at the San Francisco convention. He has doubts now, as he did then, of Nixon's drawing power with the American people and does not want to see the party's nomination sewed up and foreclosed far in advance. And that is just what the vice president is trying in every way to have done for himself.

Stassen wants to broaden the choice, make the convention a more democratic procedure, with the doors opened for others than the two Californians. One of the others, he hopes, will be himself.

Nor is it by any means certain that Bill Knowland will be in the lists. He can't if he should get beat for governor, and that is not so unlikely as it seemed a few weeks ago.

Anyhow, Stassen is against many aspects of the philosophy, both in domestic and foreign affairs, of Knowland, now his party's Senate leader and recognized as the champion of the conservative Republican forces that rallied about the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Stassen would seek support, should he become a candidate for the 1960 nomination, in the same wing of the party in which Nixon is proselyting—the Eisenhower wing.

How Stassen ever could get over all the hurdles into a position where he could become a candidate for the nomination is hard for anyone to figure—except Stassen. Party leaders in Pennsylvania, almost to a man, are cold to his nomination.

How does he expect to make it?

He has an abiding faith in the rank-and-file voters, and it is his aim to carry his case to the people in Pennsylvania over the heads of the bosses in a grass roots primary campaign that will cover every part of the state.

his wife to death June 19, 1955, "was not accorded due process of law."

Alcorta testified that he killed his wife Herlinda when he found her kissing Natividad Castilleja, 19, in an automobile.

The court said Castilleja's testimony gave the jury the false impression that his relationship with Mrs. Alcorta had been only that of a friend and neighbor. The court asserted that the prosecutor, Roy A. Barrera, knew the situation was otherwise.

In other actions today the court:

1. Turned down two more appeals of Morton Sobel, who is serving a 30-year sentence for wartime espionage. He was convicted with Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, who were executed.

2. Upheld a federal law which prohibits wholesalers of alcoholic beverages from making tie-in sales to retailers. The ruling specifically affected Magnolia Liquor Co., Inc., wholesale distributors of Seagram's products in the New Orleans Area.

3. Agreed to review decision by the U.S. Courts of Appeals in Cincinnati and New Orleans holding that authority of the Federal Trade Commission over accident and health insurance firms is limited to states that do not have adequate laws against false advertising.

HOLD THAT PYTHON!—SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12—All was peaceful when Dr. Earl F. Herald (right), of the Steinhart Aquarium, showed this 21-foot python on a television show. But later the snake balked at being put back in a sack. It took six men to tuck him away. Television cameras were not in on the struggle, however.

In a memorandum to all employes Tuesday afternoon, Tarver said "I feel that my primary obligation is to the more than 1,500 loyal employes still on the payroll rather than the 65 mailers who refused to get the paper out Saturday night."

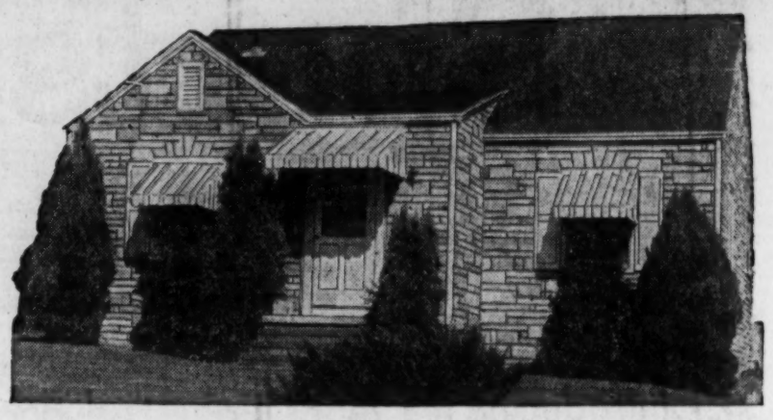

"As for the latter, the company has lived up to its contract with them in every respect and will continue to do so. All that we have ever asked of them, or are now asking, is that the Mailers Union either do the same or else declare the agreement void so that we may negotiate one with a more responsible union."

The mailers had been making $96.25 day and $98.25 night base pay for a 37½-hour work week. In addition, most were getting bonuses that lifted their average pay above $100. They got two weeks vacation with one year's service, and three weeks with 10 years' service, plus participation in the company's insurance and pension plans.

ministration would "avail" itself of his offer.

Nearly five hours later, Hagerty called newsmen to his office to say that he had been mistaken about Stevenson's role, and that he was issuing a clarifying statement "in fairness" to the former Illinois governor.

PROMISES COMMENTS

"Actually, Mr. Stevenson, while declining the invitation to work directly in the staff preparation of the American program to be presented to the NATO meeting, will present his comments to the administration on that program as it develops," Hagerty said.

"He will be kept informed of the developing program and will, we hope, discuss the items in the program with the administration before they are finalized. These conversations will be more in the nature of consultation while the program is being prepared—not just published statements after the program is completed."

This marks something of an advance in bipartisanship since the Soviet Union fired its first space satellites and in other ways made it known it had made important advances in the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

On one other occasion, in 1953, Stevenson was asked by the administration to serve as a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations. He declined.

The original proposal to Stevenson was that he head up a small "task force" that would draft new U.S. proposals that might be put before the Paris meeting in December. As Stevenson put it in a formal statement today, he felt he could "not undertake to formulate the President's policies," but would be glad to review and discuss them with officials of the administration before any new proposals were adopted finally.

In areas of agreement, he said, he stood ready to do "missionary" work wherever possible.

In characterizing the support he offered, Stevenson said it would be given "privately, publicly and politically—in this country and in Europe among our allies."

GRAVITY OF SITUATION

He explained that "the gravity of our situation in the world" impelled him to agree to help "regardless of partisanship or personal convenience." He said he had so informed Dulles, orally and by letter, a week ago.

More to be thankful for

Since November's the traditional time to count blessings, we've made our own little list of thankfuls. First, we're glad to have made so many loyal friends during our 117 years of following the sea. Second, we're proud of our great fleet headed by the world's largest superliners, Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary, which provides nearly 40% of transatlantic steamship capacity and by far the widest choice of sailing dates, rates and accommodations. Finally, we're very thankful for our Cunard record of considerate service and seagoing fun. It's all for you—at Thrift Season rates—at your local travel agent.

secrets with Western allies. In talks with fellow delegates, he said the West would gain greater security by sharing more information.

The afternoon session of the Assembly was devoted to a closed briefing by NATO military leaders. It was said to be optimistic and reassuring.

Meanwhile, two members of the U.S. delegation expressed approval of President Eisenhower's invitation to Adlai Stevenson to accompany him to the Paris NATO summit talks next month. They are Jackson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Stevenson's Democratic running mate in the last presidential campaign.

Jackson's proposal for sharing scientific secrets answered the feeling of the smaller NATO powers that they were being overlooked under the U.S. military policy of "massive retaliation."

This feeling was also expressed by Marshal Alphonse Juin of France, who said in a newspaper interview that each of the principal members of the NATO alliance should have nuclear weapons.

Juin said France could have its own nuclear arms soon if it wished — a statement confirming widespread reports the French are considering at least building an experimental atom bomb.

Jackson, chairman of the NATO Assembly's scientific committee, said that NATO soldiers, engineers and technicians should have a minimum level of common knowledge concerning the missile weapons and a long training program was necessary. This position was backed by President Eisenhower, he added.

He also proposed, on his own, the creation of a north Atlantic institute of defense studies.

The Assembly has only advisory powers, but its recommendations might influence decisions to be taken when the chiefs of NATO nations meet here next month.

POLICE ELECT FIRST DEPARTMENTAL DISCIPLINE ADVISORY BOARD

Police Elect Board To Control Discipline

Atlanta policemen Tuesday elected a captain, a sergeant and a patrolman out of a slate of 26 candidates to serve as the first departmental discipline advisory board.

Capt. A. C. Bryant, head of the evening watch traffic division, led the field with a total of 234 votes out of the 636 votes cast. Patrolman R. D. (Doc) Sims finished second with 204 and Sgt. A. L. Posey was third with 188.

Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said he was extremely gratified with the caliber of men chosen and added:

"I'm sure each of these men will deal fairly and impartially with each instance that arises. As long as they are fair both with members of the department and the public I will consider their recommendations final insofar as my office is concerned."

Only one—Posey—was appointed to the original board by Jenkins. A storm of criticism arose in city council, protesting that a survey by the Institute of Business Administration recommended the election of a three-man board by secret ballot.

The Fulton grand jury also strongly recommended such an election. Jenkins set up an election committee composed of Capt. C. D. Hardeman, Sgt. D. H. Riley and Detective R. E. Nickerson.

Posey and two other chief appointees, Detective H. F. Brown and Patrolman A. H. Campbell, announced. Twenty-three other candidates qualified and a heated campaign followed.

Many Seek Lanham's House Seat

By WILLIAM M. BATES

A big field of candidates is expected to enter the scramble for the Seventh Congressional District seat left vacant by the death of Rep. Henderson Lanham of Rome.

Gov. Griffin announced Tuesday that he will call a special election for some time in December to enable the new representative to take his seat before the opening of Congress in January.

He may announce the election date Wednesday after conferring with members of the Democratic Executive Committee for the Seventh District. It is not likely to be set before mid-December.

The prospective candidates are expected to hit the hustings almost immediately. Lanham's funeral was held in Rome Tuesday afternoon.

The campaign will be a free-for-all. It is open to anyone who can qualify, including Republicans, without formal nominating procedure or the "five per cent petition" which normally would apply to the GOP in the district.

The county unit system also will not apply to the special election and the candidate getting the most popular votes, whether it is a majority or not, will win. The victor will serve out the remaining year of Lanham's unexpired term.

A large number of state legislators are reported to be eyeing the race. These include State Sens. Bobby Lee Cook of Summerville and Fred Bentley of Marietta and Reps. George Bagby of Paulding County, James Floyd of Chattooga, Robert Scoggin and Battle Hall of Floyd, Harold Willingham of Cobb, A. A. Fowler Jr. of Douglas and Mack Pickett of Polk.

Others figuring in the speculation were Superior Court Judge Mack Hicks of Rome; former Rep. Dean Covington, also of Rome, and Superior Judge Erwin Mitchell, former Sen. Ernest McDonald and attorney Carter Pittman, all of Dalton.

Robert R. Snodgrass of Atlanta, Republican national committeeman for Georgia, said the GOP is "seriously considering" entering a candidate in the race.

Snodgrass declined to name those being considered but said one potential candidate is "an outstanding attorney in northwest Georgia." He said if the GOP does enter the fight, it will be with an organized and well-financed campaign.

Organized labor is a potent factor in the heavily industrialized Seventh District and was instrumental in putting Lanham in Congress 11 years ago.

State political circles speculated that Sen. Cook, who has been identified with labor, might fall heir to this support.

Execution Stay Granted Hall

Gov. Griffin Tuesday granted a 90-day stay of execution for a Hancock County Negro sentenced to die Nov. 22 for the murder of another Negro.

Griffin granted the stay to permit attorneys for the condemned Negro, Willie Lee Hall, to appeal to the Pardon and Paroles Board for commutation of the death sentence.

Doctors Seek Girl Bitten By Cat Here

A teen-age Atlanta girl who was bitten by a cat suspected of having rabies was being urgently sought Tuesday by Fulton County Health Department officials.

She was identified by W. H. Browne, rabies control officer for Fulton County, as Clara Sullivan, 16, of 398 Central Ave., Southwest.

"It is most urgent that she contact Fulton County health officials," Brown said. He added that anyone having information as to her whereabouts should telephone TR. 2-2207.

Miss Sullivan was among several girls believed to have been bitten by the possibly rabid cat last Friday.

Reply to Soviet Boycott Threat

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 12—The United States, Britain, France and Canada agreed this morning to propose the addition of five members to the U.N. Disarmament Commission.

Their decision was taken in response to the widespread concern over a Soviet threat last week to boycott the commission and its subcommittee as long as they retained their present membership.

OBJECTIONS RAISED

However, immediate objections were raised when it became known that the four Western powers had decided to add Brazil, India, Italy, Tunisia and Poland to the 11 members of the commission.

A number of countries, including Argentina, which had been left off the four-power list, immediately presented their own demands for inclusion.

One Western delegate said tonight that both the number and the names of the proposed additional members were being reviewed.

ANOTHER MEETING

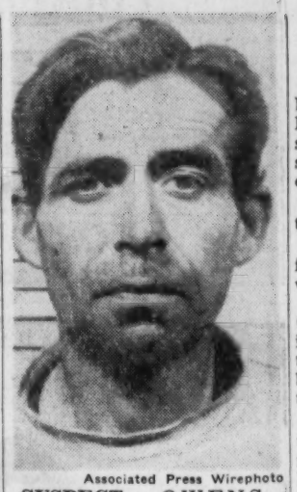

He said that while the decision to enlarge the commission still stood, another meeting of the four Western powers would probably be necessary tomorrow to agree on a final list.

The demand for the inclusion of additional countries was stimulated by the fact that India is pressing for the addition of 10 new members, who would be allocated among the principal geographical-political regions.

INDIAN LIST

Although India has not made public which countries would be named, it was generally understood that the Indian list would be acceptable to the Soviet Union.

However, the Soviet Union today reintroduced its proposal, which was rejected last week in the assembly's political committee, to dissolve the disarmament commission and substitute a "Permanent Disarmament Commission" consisting of all the 82 U.N. members.

GOP Senator Rips Truman on Missiles

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Former President Truman and a Republican senator disagreed sharply today on America's missile progress before the Republicans took over the White House.

Truman, here for a brief visit, told reporters:

On the contrary, Sen. Bennett (R-Utah) issued a statement saying that the Truman administration must be blamed "for our lag behind the Russians in the ballistic missile field."

The senator said, "The record of the Truman administration on missiles reveals a monstrous neglect bordering on the criminal," and added:

"The Truman legacy was so deplorable that the Eisenhower administration had to start virtually from scratch to begin to catch up with the Russians."

Firing in the other direction, Sen. Monroney (O-Okla) accused the Eisenhower administration of giving the country "glosstrophobia" by glossing over "all the grim facts in the ballistic missile field."

In a speech prepared for delivery at Oklahoma City, Monroney said "We will be in as much danger in a few months from the intercontinental ballistic missile as the people of France and Belgium who lived five miles from the Siegfried Line in World War II."

The 1954-53 President said his administration's program was devoted to research primarily from 1946 to 1951, and that he brought in K. T. Keller, former head of the Chrysler Corp., to run it.

INVOLUNTARY BALDNESS

What can modern scalp treatment accomplish?

George M. Voss . . . has treated thousands of balding men during last 31 years

It has been said, many times, that almost any bald man would gladly trade his most prized possession for a good head of hair.

Think about this before you're bald. Make a serious, logical effort to evaluate the possible benefits to you of Voss scalp treatment. For your own protection, think about it, investigate it, try it.

FIRST, consider the logic of Voss treatment. It's this:

Men go bald not because they "lose" hair, but because their scalp fails to keep on growing hair. If your scalp is not replacing the hair it naturally sheds, your scalp is not healthy.

Certain abnormal conditions are usually present when the scalp is failing to replace hairs. A trained eye can see these conditions: stopped-up follicles, dandruff, irritation, bacteria, tense scalp, etc.

Voss treatment corrects these abnormal conditions. It clears your follicles of growth-choking debris and bacteria, frees your scalp of infection, increases flow of blood to the papillae . . . does everything to make it easy for your scalp to grow strong hair again. And then actually stimulates your scalp into hair-growing activity!

SECOND, investigate Voss treatment.

You'll find that Voss treatment has been given on a money-back guarantee for many years . . . and that year after year it has satisfied about 95% of those who took it.

THIRD, try Voss treatment yourself.

At least come in for a thorough scalp examination. If I see we can't help you, that ends it. No charge, no obligation.

If I see we can help you, take a complete demonstration treatment of the type we recommend. The charge is only $1.00. No other cost or obligation.

For your own peace of mind, come in and try it today.

Maugham's Plea: Rip My Letters

LONDON, Nov. 12 — Somerset Maugham, who will be 84 years old Jan. 25, has asked that every letter ever written by him be destroyed.

Maugham

This unusual request to friends, colleagues and relatives was disclosed today by the Daily Mail of London. The newspaper printed part of one of a number of letters that Maugham had sent making the request.

One of the most prolific of English writers, Maughan's publishe! works listed in the British Who's Who date from 1897.

The part of the letter reprinted by the Daily Mail said:

"Don't, please, think me ungracious, but I hate having my letters published. Indeed, in my will I have expressly directed my executors to prevent their publication, and I have begged any persons who may have in their possession any to destroy them."

As his executors, Maugham has appointed an old friend, Alexander S. Frere, chairman of Walter Heinemann, Ltd., publisher, and the law firm of Vandercom, Stanton & Co. They have been directed to destroy any documents of a personal nature that may be found in his effects.

Maugham was not available for comment, but he told the Daily Mail through his secretary that "I regard my letters as my personal affair and I cannot see that their publication after my death will be any useful contribution." The secretary said the letters collected would be destroyed.

Poles Round Up All 'Hooligans'

WARSAW, Nov. 12 (AP) — Nearly 1,000 persons have been arrested in the past few days in a nationwide campaign against "hooligans," the official Polish press reported today.

Scores of "moonshine" liquor saloons were reported closed.

A police headquarters statement said it had become necessary to put all movies, parks, restaurants and some streets under continuous observation.

$250,000 Fire Levels 2 Buildings in Claxton

Fire destroyed two buildings and heavily damaged a third in the heart of Claxton early Tuesday. Damage was estimated at more than $250,000.

The blaze, which raged out of control twice during pre-dawn hours, burned through a telephone cable leaving 700 persons without phone service for more than 18 hours.

The destroyed buildings housed a grocery store and an appliance store. Both stores' stocks, including recently received Christmas merchandise, were a complete loss, Claxton Fire Chief Kenneth Perkins said.

Origin of the fire was not known.

Help calls were sent out to Metter and Reidsville. The two neighboring volunteer fire units together with Claxton firemen brought the blaze temporarily under control. However, the fire blazed anew later Tuesday morning after Metter and Reidsville firemen had returned home.

It spread to an adjoining building and caused heavy damage to a grocery store before Claxton's volunteer fire fighters could put it out.

The second blaze-up apparently started from an unextinguished ember inside the wall of one of the buildings, firemen theorized.

Telephone service was restored in Claxton at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

An autopsy confirmed that William Davis, 5, died in Columbus of flu complicated by pneumonia. . . . J. D. Bell, 47, manager of a Brunswick tree farm, was fatally injured Tuesday when a tractor he was operating overturned. . . . A truck-auto collision in Cleveland shortly before midnight Monday killed two persons and injured five, one seriously. The dead were listed as Rudolph Anderson, 58, of Murraysville and Donald Allen, 19, of Cleveland. . . . Mrs. Sherman I. Helmey of Wilmington Island near Savannah was fatally injured Monday in an auto accident in Tattnall County when the car in which she was riding with her husband was struck by another car, said the State Patrol.

State Funds Continue For Flu-Hit Schools

George P. Whitman Jr., chairman of the state board of education, Tuesday assured local school systems they would not lose state funds because of declines in attendance resulting from flu outbreaks.

Board members Henry Blount of Waynesboro and Henry Stewart of Cedartown suggested schools be allowed to use the average attendance during three months in which there was no serious flu threat in figuring allotments, which are based on the number of pupils in average daily attendance.

School Board Refers Back Jackson-Barrow Dispute

The State Board of Education heard lengthy arguments Tuesday in a dispute between Jackson County and Barrow County school officials and then returned the case right back where it had come from.

The dispute involved Barrow's complaint that Barrow County pupils are being transported into Brasleton, Jackson County, on a private bus.

In the end, the state board ordered the whole matter back for consideration of the county boards.

In other business, the school board:

1. Heard a report from a committee headed by Sidney Scarborough of Atlanta which said abuses in athletic practices were minor and that the situation could be handled by the Georgia High School Assn. and the Georgia Accrediting Assn.

2. Received a request from Youth for Christ that the organization be allowed to conduct meetings in school classrooms before and after school hours. The group was advised to seek a ruling from the attorney general.

Czech Drama To Be Offered at Agnes Scott

A Czechoslovakian drama, "The World We Live In," by Josef and Karel Capek, will be presented by the Agnes Scott College Blackfriars at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 22 in Presser Hall.

This "expressionistic fantasy" of the 1920's was first presented at the National Theater of Czechoslavakia in Prague and came to New York in 1922.

In the play, which requires a cast of 39, a philosophical vagrant falls asleep in a forest and observes "a curiously interesting analogy between the lives of insects and men." Beetles, ants, butterflies—each group of insects lives, loves and dies in following its course of life, showing a great similarity to human ways.

English-born Peter Mettam of Atlanta will play the vagrant and another native Englishman, Harry Begg, also will appear in the drama.

Dr. Roberta Winter is directing the play and Mrs. Charles S. Carruth is technical director.

Folsom, Mitchell Urge Revision of Education

By BESS FURMAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—Two cabinet officers called today for revision of the American education system to meet the Soviet challenge.

Folsom, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary, said higher priorities must be put on courses in mathematics and science in the light of this week's report showing this country lagging far behind the Soviet Union in those important fields.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said that it is imperative that this country set up a counseling system which will channel youth now in school into occupations which must be manned if America and its democratic capitalistic system is to survive.

FREE CHOICE

Both Folsom and Mitchell said free choice must be maintained and development of the individual must continue to be our aim.

The two men addressed the "Education and Employment" meeting of about 125 educators and government experts called in by the Labor Department to offer advice on how to make the schools efficient in training for the economy of the future.

Folsom said there must be "important changes in the light of a challenge which grows bigger and bigger—the challenge from Russia."

He said this country must realize that a larger part of the national income must go into education. He advised "a little less chrome, a few less country clubs, more classrooms and teachers."

REPORT ON RUSSIA

Folsom reviewed some of the more startling figures in the new report by the office of education on schools in Russia. The report said that there was an average of 17 pupils in each Soviet class as compared to more than 27 in this country; that Russian children got more instruction in 10 years than American students did in 12; that all Russian high school graduates have four years chemistry, as compared to less than a third having one year of chemistry in the United States.

"While we don't want to put all the stress on science and mathematics, I do question if we are giving the right priorities now. We have gone to the opposite extreme—we are not giving anything like as much mathematics and science as we should."

Folsom said that the main job does not lie in Washington but in local communities. But he also said, "We can make suggestions, give some leadership, have a few grant-in-aid programs. We can shift the emphasis from 1918 in the federal programs which stimulate school people."

SPECIAL SUBJECTS

In using the date of World War I, Folsom was referring to the vocational educational program set up at that time and administered since by the office of education. Each year Congress appropriates sums to stimulate courses in special subjects.

Appropriations this fiscal year total $40,888,412. This breaks down as follows: agriculture, $13,296,273; home economics, $8,227,416; trades and industries, $11,300,348; distributive trades, $2,602,142; teacher training in vocational fields, $1,114,233; practical nurses, $4,000,000; fishery trades and industries, $228,000; vocational education in Guam, $80,000; in the Virgin Island, $40,000.

Nigerian's Statue Makes Elizabeth An African Queen, Says Art Critic

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—A Nigerian sculptor has finished an official statue which in one critic's view makes Elizabeth II look like an African queen.

"Likeness is there all right," said Daily Mail critic Pierre Jeannerat, "but I personally feel a distinct Africanization of the features.

The almost life-sized sculpture is by Benedict Enwonwu, who says the "Africanization" criticism "is not correct."

"There is serenity there, African serenity, perhaps. But I only wanted to interpret queenly dignity," he observed.

Elizabeth posed six times for the work.

Enwonwu, born in an obscure African village in 1921, is art adviser to the Nigerian government. The Queen's statue, cast in bronze, will go to Nigeria to be placed in the Parliament Building.

Women, Children First? Not Always, Doctors Ask

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Two psychiatrists who studied the Andrea Doria ship disaster at first hand say they believe an ancient maxim of the sea—that of "women and children first"—needs to be changed.

Their view is that the rule should be modified under such circumstances to provide that a child always be in the company of a parent, even if the situation requires that it be the father.

"The application of the women and children first principle on the Andrea Doria resulted in some poignant and . . . tragic separations and isolations," the psychiatrists asserted.

"It can be said that this principle, which prevails in our culture during catastrophes, frequently results in the isolation of children from their parents with possibly disastrous psychological consequences."

The psychiatrists who made the study are Dr. Paul Fiedman, of New York's Beth Israel Hospital, and Dr. Luis Linn, of Mount Sinai Hospital here.

Both were aboard the liner Ile De France, which took aboard several hundred passengers from the sinking Italian liner following its Atlantic collision last year with the Swedish motorship Stockholm.

The two psychiatrists presented their observations and conclusions in an article in the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Concerning children, the authors said World War II studies demonstrated repeatedly that youngsters who went through horrible experiences showed little after-effects if they had been with a parent.

The psychiatrists added:

"The authors are convinced that a modification of the 'women and children first' rule by insistance that a parent accompany the child, even if the only parent available be the father, would represent a sound application of modern psychiatric insights."

'Hot Cargo' Is Boycott, NLRB Rules

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—The Teamsters' Union and its long-fought "hot cargo" contracts suffered a sharp blow today.

The National Labor Relations Board ruled that these contracts with common carriers, such as truck lines, violate the secondary boycott ban of the Taft-Hartley Act. The case at point involved the Genuine Parts Co. of Atlanta.

HOT CARGO

A "hot cargo" clause ordinarily provides that the employes covered by the contract may refuse to handle, or work on, goods designated by the union as "unfair." The clause is a powerful organizing weapon.

Three of the five members of the board made the ruling, with a fourth member writing a limited concurrence. One member, Abe Murdock, dissented.

The decision reversed the examiner, Lloyd Buchanan.

The ruling was made in a case where Local 728, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, had "advised" its member employed by truck lines that they could refuse to handle freight from Genuine Parts.

STRIKE IN ATLANTA

The union was conducting a strike at the company's Rayloc Division plant in Atlanta. The clauses were contained in the union's Southeastern area contracts with trucklines that hauled products of Genuine Parts Co.

Boyd Leedom, chairman of the board, and Joseph A. Jenkins, took the position in today's decision that the board should adopt "an affirmative decisional rule" that a union's making of a hot cargo contract "constitutes prima facie evidence of union inducement of encouragement" of secondary boycott activity. Then a violation would be established when it was proved that a shipper had been refused use of a common carrier's facilities.

Red Gangsters in Korea Risk War, U.S. Warns

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—The United States today accused the Soviet Union and Red China of risking war by illegal shipments of modern weapons, including planes and rockets, into North Korea.

Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn) made the charge before the U.N.'s 82 - nation political committee, where he declared the North Korean government was not entitled to any more consideration than "gangsters who invade a private home."

Judd's use of the word gangster touched off some sharp exchanges in the committee, which opened debate on an issue long unresolved in the United Nations—the unification of Korea.

Judd advanced a four-point program which he said would demonstrate to the world whether "the Communist regime in North Korea and their supporters in Communist China and the Soviet Union really desire a peaceful settlement in Korea."

The four points were withdrawal of Communist Chinese troops from Korea, response to U.N. proposals for peaceful unification, a satisfactory accounting for 2,720 missing U.N. military personnel, and return of thousands of abducted South Korean civilians to their homes, "or at least to disclose their fate."

Judd told the committee that the situation in North Korea is "still tense and dangerous. He estimated the Communists have 35 divisions in North Korea, equipped with the latest weapons of war.

Atlantan Is Indicted In Robbery

Indictments charging robbery and the illegal carrying of a pistol were returned Tuesday against a 23-year-old Atlantan in last Tuesday's $2,069 robbery of a real estate company employe.

The Fulton County grand jury brought the charges against James L. Dixon, 23, of 2152 Tilson Cir., SE, alleging that he took the money from Dan Fretwell, 21, of Jackson at pistol point.

Dixon was charged with robbery by threatening to shoot Fretwell. He was indicted under a recent law which makes robbery with an offensive weapon a possible capital offense.

Police said Dixon admitted to them that he held up Fretwell, an employe of D. L. Stokes and Co., Inc., shortly after Fretwell left a bank.

Woman, 71, Severely Burned as Clothes Catch Fire

A 71-year-old Negro woman was severely burned Tuesday when her clothing caught fire from an open heater, police said.

Jennie Maeginnis of 275 West Lake Dr., NW, was admitted to Grady Hospital with third-degree burns over 40 per cent of her body and second-degree burns over the arms and legs, Patrolmen L. F. Burch and W. M. Cochran said.

Officers said they were told a gust of air blew her clothing against the heater. They added while she was attempting to extinguish the flames, the fire spread to a clothes closet.

My Aching Back

Back injuries due to improper lifting alone averages 127,000 per year. Each injury averages:

Days lost by workers—22

Man days of production lost by employers—28

Many back injuries can be prevented by proper methods of lifting heavy weights.

To lift properly and prevent injury, place the weights directly between the knees, bend the knees and not the back, keep the back as perpendicular as possible. If this method is employed in lifting it will prevent many back injuries.

If you've had a recent back injury, it will save you time, money and misery by consulting your family Chiropractor.

Georgia Church Warns of Pullout If Dixie Baptists Back Integration

By KAY McLEOD
Constitution Church Editor

VALDOSTA, Nov. 12—A Georgia Baptist church has threatened withdrawal of "our entire support from any branch of the Southern Baptist Convention which practices and/or supports integration with the Negro race."

This resolution is one of two strongly segregationist proposals which will come before the convention for action at its closing session here on Thursday.

The resolution has been presented to the committee on resolutions by the Mount Olive Baptist Church in Colquitt County.

The Mount Olive Church action was taken last July. But the board of deacons gave instructions that it not be released for publication until the convention.

The second resolution comes from the 28-church Tucker Baptist Assn. in the Southwest Georgia area surrounding Camilla. It asserts "Our beliefs that separate facilities for the major races of the South in religious, social and educational affairs are in the best interests of the racial integrity of both."

Deploring "the strife, violence, bitterness and bloodshed that is being forced on the people of the Southern states by outside and non-resident influences," the resolution has the unanimous approval of the Tucker Assn.

It was originated by F. L. Peavey, a lay messenger to the convention from the First Baptist Church of Camilla, who read the resolution to the convention Tuesday.

The resolution was promptly referred without discussion to the Rev. A. B. Hawkes, Waycross, chairman.

The Tucker resolution says that the race problem "can best be resolved within the deliberation of Christian groups such as this."

It further deplores "political opportunism and personal profits that have been allowed to fester and grow" out of the integration issue.

Southerners have the right to work to alter any law which "violates our conscience," the president of the Georgia Baptist Convention told delegates.

Dr. James P. Wesberry, pastor of Atlanta's Morningside Baptist Church, delivering the president's address to the convention, called for prayer for the governor, President, all government officials and "all races and creeds" in dealing with the race question.

The convention, opening its 136th annual session here Tuesday, approved the establishment of a nine-member committee to promote "the Baptist and American principle of separation of church and state."

The convention goes into its second day Wednesday with the election of officers slated for the afternoon. Most delegates here are saying that Dr. Wesberry will be re-elected for a second one-year term.

The education commission reported that $1,320,533.16 had been collected on a $5,562,969 program approved in 1955 for capital improvements at the six Baptist colleges in the state.

In the budget for 1958, approved at the Tuesday afternoon session, $545,200 was allocated for the schools. A total of $350,000 of this comes from the capital improvement program.

Highway Fund Setup Looked Good in 1952

By WILLIAM M. BATES
Constitution Political Editor

Those persons—and they were few—who warned against a 1952 constitutional amendment earmarking gasoline and auto tag taxes for state highway purposes can now say they told us so.

For that amendment, which apparently looked so good in 1952 to an overwhelming majority in the Legislature and to a somewhat smaller majority of the people, has put state appropriations in straitjacket.

William M. Bates

And there doesn't seem to be much the Legislature or Gov. Griffin can do about it in the immediate future. The governor will almost certainly recommend to the General Assembly in January that the state government continue to function under the present appropriation act which was passed in 1956.

A new appropriations act in 1958 would result in a drastic shakeup of state finances. It could lead to a heavy depletion of the present $35,000,000 surplus or sharp curtailment in school, welfare and health spending.

This is how the present situation came about.

The 1952 constitutional amendment, which was endorsed by then Gov. Herman Talmadge and supported by all but a tiny handful of the members of the Legislature, requires the General Assembly to appropriate to the Highway Department a sum not less than the gasoline and auto license tag taxes collected the previous fiscal year.

SURPLUS ADDED

.. The actual amount to be earmarked for highway purposes is computed each time a new appropriations bill is passed; however, an appropriations act can carry over from year to year.

A new appropriations bill in January, then, would probably mean that the additional $20,000,000 in highway spending would have to come either from the treasury surplus or from reductions in other spending programs. The only substantial spending cuts possible lie in the fields of health, education and welfare.

CRY FOR MORE

In at least one of these fields—education—the cry will be for more, not less, money in the coming fiscal year and after. State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. estimates the cost of the Minimum Foundation Program for Education will go up $9,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next July 1 and $18,000,000 in the year beginning July 1, 1959.

The financial outlook is not pleasant for the man who takes over from Gov. Griffin in 1959.

Nor is it encouraging to the growing body of legislators who want the General Assembly to exercise a stronger voice over state spending. The Legislature is just as hamstrung as the governor by the highway allocations amendment.

REPEAL MOVE

It is possible that a move may come in the January session to repeal the allocations amendment.

This might prove helpful to the drive to restore legislative control over appropriations and with it legislative independence.

Thus the present regular appropriation to the Highway Department is based on gasoline and tag revenue for the 1955-56 fiscal year. Gov. Griffin has sweetened the original appropriation from time to time from surplus funds.

At the present time, the Highway Department is budgeted to get $67,112,014 during the current fiscal year. Griffin probably will make about $5,000,000 more available from surplus money before the year ends next June 30.

HIGHWAYS' SHARE

However, should the Legislature enact a new appropriations measure at its forthcoming session, it would have to give the Highway Department not less than $87,674,592—the amount of gas and tag taxes during last fiscal year less the cost of collecting them.

This, obviously, would result in near chaos to the state budget.

State spending is now at a rate of $315,418,945 annually with the prospect that it will go higher before the end of the current fiscal year. It is now almost equal to the $315,590,081 collected from all revenue sources last fiscal year. And Revenue Commissioner T. V. Williams Sr. predicts collections this year will be about the same as last year.

Legendary Lawyers Series Set

By VAL ADAMS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—Dennis King and Menasha Skulnik have agreed to co-star in a comedy series titled "Howe & Hummel." It will be filmed by Screen Gems, Inc.

The series will be based on incidents in the lives of two New York attorneys—William F. Howe and Abe Hummel—who operated from a store-front office at 89 Center St. from 1869 to the early 1900s.

Kidnapers and brothel keepers owned their freedom to the incredible legal counselors, who specialized in cases of murder, manslaughter, breach of promise, thievery and divorce.

The "Howe & Hummel" television property was assembled by Diana Green, who made a co-production arrangement with Irving Briskin head of production for Screen Gems. Miss Green was associate producer of "Miss Lonelyhearts," the recent Broadway production starring Pat O'Brien, but has had no previous experience in television.

A half-hour pilot film titled "Howe & Hummel" will be produced in February. The series, which will be written by Henry Denker, is expected to make its debut next fall.

SLEEPY TIME—Ida Lupino and Howard Duff, stars of the TV comedy series, Mr. Adams and Eve, have just been startled out of a deep sleep by a neurotic pet raven, Scaramouche, in the episode set for Friday on CBS-TV.

As I See It

Time on His Hands Is Vexing Bob Hope

By PAUL JONES
Constitution Amusement Editor

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 12—Bob Hope is burned up about the way Timex canceled his television show.

We were out at Hope's home in North Hollywood for a day of recreation and dinner and he kept referring to the subject of his TV show time and again.

Some of the time he was joking about it. When asked if he was going to give watches for Christmas presents, he came back: "No, just the works" and he quipped on another occassion, "If I don't get a sponsor this house will revert to the Bank of America."

But, although he was willing to laugh about it and have others laugh with him, it was obvious that the cancelation was a blow to his pride. As he showed us through his palatial office which adjoins his beautiful, old English style home, he said he would not be able to make a proposed trip to Atlanta for a charity affair because of the TV shows. "We've got to get a sponsor, you know," he kept saying.

Jones

While we were in the office, Bob showed us the thousands of mementos he collected during his great tours of the battle fronts entertaining the GIs. We don't think the soldiers, sailors and Marines of this country will ever forget this guy.

There were swastikas from Hitler's home, gifts from famous people throughout the world, souvenirs from the battlefronts, from his theater and night clubs engagements, from movies, his many friends everywhere. They are the kind of objects that you can't find in the souvenir shops.

BOB'S PARTY was the frosting on the NBC-Color Caravan cake. He is one of the greatest hosts around. The food, catered by Chason's, was superb and the activities Bob planned for the newsmen were wonderful.

During the afternoon, he staged the "Bob Hope Open Golf Tournament"—a hole-in-one affair on his backyard one-hole golf course.

We went to bat in second place and knocked the white pellet square on the green about eight feet off the pin. Bob complimented us on our form and said, "If a guy with a swing like that can't get close, nobody can."

Walter Winchell followed us on the tee. He sliced one over into a neighbor's yard. He trickled his second shot only a few feet off the tee. The Monitor staff was doing a tape recording on Winchell's performance with Hope doing the commentary. Walter's third blast plopped right into a sandtrap, off the back side of the green.

Tennessee Ernie Ford stepped over the back fence—he's a neighbor of Hope's—and he and Bob engaged in a little contest after the newsmen had had their swings. Old Ern said to tell all Atlanta hello. "You know," he said, "I used to work in your town. I was an announcer on WATL (now WAOK) and I sang in the church choir and the Civic Chorus." If you have thought that Ernie's singing of the hymns is strictly commercial, you've got another thought coming. He sings 'em from the heart.

JUST AS DINNER was being served on the terrace, off the living room, Danny Thomas, star of Make Room for Daddy, showed up in a flurry. His loud-mouth, look-at-me-I'm-talking attitude had all of the critics talking about him. We were so disillusioned, for we had thought he was something like the lovable character he portrays on television.

Bob Hope

But, then Hollywood is full of disappointments.

It is the people like Bob Hope and Dinah Shore and Loretta Young and Tennessee Ernie Ford who help you to keep your faith in this place.

Seeing them in their homes you get to know them as you never knew them before—and you come away feeling proud that you do know them.

Television needs a great guy like Bob Hope. In fact, he should have been born triplets.

WQXI's Corley To Appear on Patti's Show

Bob Corley, program director and disc jockey at WQXI radio station here, will appear on the Patti Page show Wednesday night on CBS-TV and Channel 5.

Corley is known for his original monologues, many of which have bee. recorded. His "Number One Street," a satire on a tourist touring Florida, and his "Jury Duty," a take-off on just what the title implies, have become favorites of record fans everywhere.

Bob has appeared on the TV film series, Stars of the Grand Ole Opry.

Sullivan To Aim For Young Viewers

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 — Ed Sullivan, whose Trendex ratings last Sunday night was defeated by Maverick for the first time, announced today that he's going to do something about it. On the assumption that youngsters make up a large segment of Maverick's audience, Sullivan will hereafter book on the first half of his show popular singers who have a special appeal for teen-agers.

Sullivan's weapons against Maverick next Sunday will be Julius La Rosa and Gene Vincent.

Shulton Still Can Find Show

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 — A spokesman for Shulton, Inc., said today the advertiser will not present a special one-hour television program on Dec. 11 and has "returned the time period to CBS." However, the network said Shulton has until "the close of business" Wednesday to find a show to go into the time period.

Originally Shulton planned to sponsor a Bing Crosby show next month and invited the United States Time Corp. to be a co-sponsor.

Dedication Opens UDC Convention

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 12 (AP) — The United Daughters of the Confederacy opened its five-day general convention here by dedicating a white marble structure as the memorial building to the women of the Confederacy.

The memorial building houses all records of the UDC.

Speaking for the UDC at the building dedication was Miss Edna H. Fowler of Los Angeles, the organization's president general.

"This is not just a building of steel, stone and marble," she said. "It is a temple of memory. It is more than walls and a roof—it is a sanctuary for the memories of a great past, the tasks of the present and the hopes of the future."

Texan Cope Elected by Publishers

BOCA RATON, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP). Millard Cope, president and publisher of the Marshall (Tex.) News-Messenger, was elected president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn. today.

Hugh B. Patterson Jr., publisher and general manager of the Arkansas Gazette at Little Rock, was reelected treasurer and William J. Hearin, general manager of the Mobile (Ala.) Press-Register was reelected a director.

New directors chosen were Alvah A. Chapman, president of the Columbus (Ga.) Ledger-Enquirer; Tams Bixby Jr., president and publisher of the Muskogee (Okla.) Daily Phoenix and Times Democrat; Bert N. Honea, general manager and vice president of the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram, and Paul S. Huber Jr., president of the Norfolk-Portsmouth (Va.) newspapers.

Socialist Waiters Don Capitalist Clothes

VIENNA, Nov. 12 (UP)—Waiters in Communist Czechoslovakia are going back to capitalist-style tailcoats and dinner jackets, the Prague newspaper Svobodne Slovo said today.

Waiters have been wearing short gray jackets since the country went Communist in 1948. Formal clothing for restaurant workers had been banned as "conservative and non-socialist."

Races Calm In South, Editors Say

BOCA RATON, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP). Scattered racial violence in the South has made headlines, but members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn. said today most areas are calm.

J. N. Heiskell, editor and president of the Little Rock (Ark.) Gazette, said during a roundtable discussion at the SNPA convention that the "political action" of Gov. Faubus in calling out the National Guard heightened the crisis there.

"No more than two or three policemen," he said, were needed to handle the situation.

MODEL FOR YEARS

"For years Little Rock had been regarded as a model for race relations," Heiskell reported.

The Little Rock crisis has "hardened the strong core of resistance" to integration in Georgia, said General Manager Bert Struby of the Macon Telegraph and News. But he reported that an Atlanta ministerial group has received good public support in its attempt to make an open-minded study of the problem.

Louis P. Cashman Jr., editor of the Vicksburg (Miss.) Post, said there is no pressure for integration in that state. Relations between Negroes and whites in Mississippi are good, he said.

ARE NOT PUSHING

North Carolina Negroes want more rights, reported Holt McPherson, editor of the High Point Enterprise, but they are not pushing for sudden radical changes in the school system.

Charles P. Manship Jr., publisher of the Baton Rouge State Times and Advocate, pointed out that Louisiana has integration at the college level and 150 Negroes are attending state colleges. Efforts to integrate the public schools, he said, might lead to trouble.

NEW CHEST RUB!
RELIEVES CHEST COLDS WITHOUT GREASE, DISCOMFORT, OR TEARS!

Your fingers touch only the applicator

Feelable relief in seconds!

Works faster—reaches all breathing passages instantly—there is no grease to slow it down!

Once in a blue moon somebody thinks of a better way to do something. When that happens you can happily bid good-bye to all those obnoxious, tedious methods of the old. Such a thing has happened in the treatment of chest colds. With Coldene Stick there are no greasy chests, sticky fingers, eye-smarting vapors or unpleasant smells.

You simply rub Coldene Stick back and forth across the chest, throat, forehead and nostrils. Your fingers touch only the applicator. And, in addition, you get faster relief. For medicating vapors form instantly; there is no grease to hold them back. Inhaled at once, they start breaking up congestion in seconds—in nose, throat, sinus passages, your chest—the whole bronchial area.

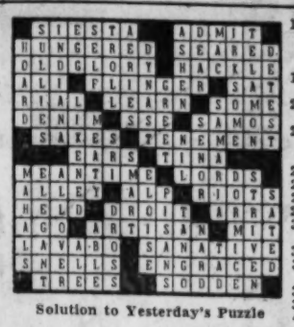

Wherever you rub on Coldene Stick, counter irritant action stimulates the flow of blood to the surface of the skin. This swiftly helps the body put its own natural healing powers to work. Likewise powerful pain relievers promptly penetrate deep down into muscle tissues to give analgesic action and lessen aches. You rub in Coldene Stick to rub out pain.

Every Man Has Fear Of Death

QUESTION: The death of a close friend recently unnerved me. I even have physical reactions when the subject of death is mentioned. Counseling has not brought relief, for I was told that this "death phobia comes from a hostile and unstable home life. Is there no answer to this distressing problem? J.E.

ANSWER: The fear of death might well be accentuated by some close experience such as you have had, but this experience did not cause the fear of death, neither did the unstable and hostile home life. Every man is born with the fear of death and that is because of sin. It cannot be removed by a change of environment nor by self-analysis. It is as much a part of the unconverted person as conscience and memory. Jesus Christ came to destroy the fear of death by His own death, and that fear is effectively and permanently destroyed in all who receive Him.

I do not believe that you will ever discover the answer to your problem until you discover that there is eternal life for you through a personal trust in Jesus Christ as your own Savior from sin and death. It is not finally death we fear, but the judgment that follows it. "It has been appointed unto all men once to die and after that the judgment."

KEEP WELL: Build Health in 40s for the Latter Years

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

You are headed for a nervous breakdown unless you change your way of living," said the physician. This advice was disturbing but not surprising to Mr. Jones, who had reasons for going off his rocker. It was the old story of the energetic businessman trying to establish a new firm in a highly competitive field.

He was making enough to take care of current expenses but too little for his ambitious wife. Financially he was at a standstill and the situation was becoming too difficult to bear. The psychiatrist realized that Mr. Jones was at the end of his rope and ready to snap.

The cause of mental illness varies but a common denominator is the failure to adapt to stress. Some attempt to solve the problem in various ways until the solution is found. Others are overwhelmed by conflicts and our Mr. Jones fell into this category. He had to be convinced that no business is worth loss of health and that the stage had been reached where adjustments were almost impossible.

The development of a nervous breakdown is the last attempt by the sufferer to reduce anxiety or to maintain his integrity. He escapes into a world of his own which provides a perfect excuse for not succeeding.

The childhood environment is important in the way we react. Those who grow up with a sense of inferiority, insecurity, and lack of love are handicapped because the ensuing emotional kinks make it difficult to handle stress. The physician who knows the background of his patient often can stop the snowballing effect of mental struggles.

The Biddles Like Play About the Biddles

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—A dollar-laden family theater party got rolling merrily along today in London's plush West End.

Here for the charity premiere of a play about themselves, "The Happiest Millionaire," were members of the wealthy Biddle and Duke families, plus some rich friends.

Hours before the first curtain, the carpeted corridors of the Ritz echoed with the popping of champagne corks and the squeaks of caviar cans being opened. The party cost about $2,500.

"Millionaires?" said Mrs. Cordelia Robertson in reply to a reporter's question. "Who cares about millionaires. Everyone's a millionaire these days."

Mrs. Robertson, the former Cordelia Drexel Biddle, is portrayed in the play by actress Maureen Swanson, a British beauty.

"This play is the true picture of my life," said Mrs. Robertson, now married to architect Markoe Robertson.

"I ran away from school, brought home a young man named Angier Duke and told my parents I was going to marry him."

She said her family was astounded. So were the Dukes.

The marriage ended in divorce.

Mrs. Robertson's father was Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle—"the happiest millionaire" of the play. He is portrayed by Canadian actor Robert Beatty.

Among the others on hand for the play—already a Broadway hit—were Mrs. Robertson's husband; her son, Angier Biddle Duke, cousin of the rich Doris Duke; and Mrs. Robertson's nephew, Nicholas Biddle.

Mrs. Robertson said her father was a happy millionaire and she is a happy millionairess. Why?

DEAN DREWRY ADDRESSES YOUNG EDITORS

Journalism Critics Hit By Drewry

Journalism offers challenging, socially useful careers, the dean of the University of Georgia journalism school told an Atlanta meeting of north Georgia high school and college editors Tuesday night.

Dean John E. Drewry, addressing a career program sponsored by the Atlanta professional chapter, Sigma Delta XI, told the group of more than 80 editors there are several things to look for in choosing a career.

SELF EXPRESSION

Does it give an opportunity for self-expression? Is it socially useful? Does it offer security? Is there variaty in the work? Does it present challenging goals? Is it an occupation interesting in itself?

Journalism satisfies each of these requirements, Dean Drewry said.

"Once in the field of journalism, you'll never feel ashamed of the work you're doing," he said. "It is socially useful, and the creative aspects offer a continous challenge."

"DON'T KNOW"

The dean of the Henry Grady School of Journalism warned against those who misrepresent journalism as a field of low wages and small security. "They don't know what they're talking about," he said.

He added: "Pay standards in the journalism field are comparable to those in many professions. And there are good working hours."

The speaker was introduced by Atlanta Constitution editor Ralph McGill, who characterized Georgia journalism as "the lengthening shadow of Dean Drewry and his school of journalism."

Flying Car Driver Is Listed 'Poor'

An Atlantan Tuesday was listed in "poor" condition at Grady Hospital from injuries suffered when the car he was driving took to the air on Highway 42, struck the top of a building and fell on a parked vehicle, police said.

Kelly W. Thurmond, 30, of 1293 Allene Ave., SW, was admitted to the hospital following the crash Monday. Clayton County Patrolmen C. E. Sanders and G. W. Allen said he was reported to have severe internal injuries and cuts and bruises of the body.

Officers said they were given this account of the wreck:

Thurmond was driving north on Highway 42 near the DeKalb-Clayton County line when he lost control of the vehicle and it plunged from the road and went up an embankment. The embankment acted as a ramp and the car soared into the air.

It struck the front shelter of a combination service station and store 129 feet from the road with suffiicent force to leave a front fender and part of the radiator dangling from the store top, 14 feet from the ground. Then it landed on a parked car which was standing at a gasoline pump in front of the store.

An employe delivering gasoline to the car saw the vehicle soaring through the air and ran to safety, officers said. There was no one in the parked car.

Voices, Talents Discovered

Three little boys in sneakers and khaki pants hung over the balcony at the Woman's Club the other night and applauded vociferously. In fact the littlest one kept applauding and the big one, grave and important because the family position was at stake, had to take his brother's hands and hold them a while to keep him quiet.

The little boys had good reason to applaud. Down on the stage the tall blonde captain in the red and blue uniform, with the gleaming sword and the big voice, was their daddy.

Lewis Davis, father of four (the baby was at home), part-time Clayton County farmer and full-time telephone company "long lines boy," had discovered he had a voice.

It was the Bell Choral Club's first operetta, presented for employes and their families, and we went for the express purpose of hearing Dave but also out of curiosity about the drive that causes people with other kinds of jobs to stay up late, study and rehearse tirelessly to put on a show for which they will not be paid.

Later I talked with Jane Wilkes, telephone company personnel supervisor, about it.

"We've had the Choral Club a long time," she said, "and employes have always enjoyed it. I think it's because they discover abilities they didn't know they had—and that's good for the organization and good for the individual. We usually give concerts but this year we decided to branch out and have an operetta and I was surprised and impressed at how well everybody took to acting and learning all those lines."

The vehicle was an old and melodic Victor Herbert operetta, "The Fortune Teller"—and it employed the talents of all kinds of people, none of whom can be said to be professional. (Our friend, Dave, only started taking music lessons in recent months, although his father was a well-known Atlanta singer, Howard Davis.)

J. B. Neese, who played Fresco, the ballet master, and Paul Jackson who played Count Berezowski are, like Dave, members of the A. T. & T. "long lines" department.

Pert and pretty little Barbara McKee, who played Musette, the Gypsy fortune teller, is a member of the employes' credit union. Bonnie McMahan, the lovely Irma, works in the district engineering department. Her lover, Sandor, was played by husky Dave Hinman of the public relations staff.

The show was pure fun, not designed for public appraisal, although some friends of families were invited. Mrs. John Hoffman, who directs the choral club, directed the operetta and everybody else—the pianists, the chorus and the dancers—has worked since August to perfect it.

Some of the people in it may well go on to professional performances. Many will not, but in the meanwhile they are using their talents, which is an important thing for people to do. It would be exciting if a great voice were discovered in this organization and, according to the eldest of the little Davises, this might happen.

"My daddy," declared young Stuart, "can sing louder than Leonard Warren!"

Dave insists that his son has only heard Mr. Warren on a record. But Stuart could be right. There's no better way for developing volume, at least, than yelling at or trying to out-yell four little boys.

OUT OF YESTERDAY'S DREAMS COME PAJAMAS FOR TODAY'S MISS
Temme Barkin in Calico Printed Gown Worn With White Pantaloons

By RAYMONDE ALEXANDER

The bedtime story is following a new plot and the teen miss is taking to it with more than just a show of interest.

Once every member of her set pulled out the same, or very near the same, sleeping gear when one of those pallet parties was the social event for the night. Now, only the dreamer is unaware of the new trend toward individualism in night clothes.

Seems there is sharp division on the subject of pajamas versus gowns, but complete unison on a new look to both. Those tailored cottons, once prized because they were cut and sewn just like her father's, are being given back to the boys.

WANT TO BE GIRLS

It's another indication that girls want to be girls and the more feminine and soft sleepwear is the better they like it.

It's a trend that isn't surprising because when fashion dresses her like a lady by day, she couldn't be expected to revert to a tomboy by night—even if she is anticipating a call only from the sandman.

There are two directions in which these sleep fashions are turning. First, they are going very demure—harking back to grandmother's day—in soft, muted colors. The other finds them headed toward a look of sportswear—setting a modern pace—in bold, bright colors.

Reminiscent of the granny styles are the flannelette and soft cotton gowns. Many are printed in old-fashioned patterns such as provincials, angels, and dainty florals.

On the sportswear side, the favored pajama has a nautical appeal. Made of cotton knit, the top is middy style with big sailor collar, laced sides and bib. The pants are short, bloomer like, and knit with a red stripe to match the middy.

BLOOMER STYLE

In this group, the pants generally run to the short bloomer style—seems the girls get tangled in their own pajama legs when the legs go below the thighs.

One of the most fun get-ups for sleeping is the pantaloon-gown. The gown part is in old-fashioned calico print and the pantaloons are white. If this brings back memories, don't tell the girls—they are thrilled over this exciting newness.

While lining up your Christmas list, make a note of these and you won't have to wonder whether or not she'll be happy with your gift.

For shopping information, call JA. 2-5050, Ext. 394, or send a self-addressed post card, stating date of story, to Women's Department, The Atlanta Constitution.

Tonic in Buying New Holiday Hats

Nothing is as good a tonic for women as a new hat! This is the right moment to indulge in a new one, a dressy little hat for the special functions of the approaching holiday season.

I've never seen prettier little hats than those the milliners are making now. They are all small and all show a lot of hair as they are worn either toward the back of the head or slightly tipped to one side.

They are made of satin or moire or tulle in lovely pale colors, white, of course, and the new silver-blonde shade that matches silver-blonde hair and light blues.

She Stirs Up Flowers And Aromatic Dishes

By YOLANDE GWIN

Mrs. James E. Wells was in the kitchen stirring up an aromatic dish.

"Those are herbs you smell," she said. "I adore cooking with them; in fact that's one of my favorite pastimes. This dish? Oh, it's spinach with rosemary."

She went on fixing the dish and talking about how she had just finished making some artichoke pickles for the church fair Thursday night at St. Luke's.

"But you're the new president of the Junior Flower Show Assn. and what about flowers?" the visitor asked.

"LOVE TO ENTERTAIN"

"Yes, I'm so pleased, because I'm usually the hospitality chairman for everything and that's because I just love people and love to entertain."

The many friends of Mrs. Wells—she's the former Mary Thomas of Atlanta—are well aware of her charm, friendliness and hospitality, as well as her knack for doing things in an orderly and expert manner.

Proof of this is in her cooking. "We, my husband and I, love to give one-dish buffet suppers. A casserole and a green salad are our favorite," she said. "I think cooking is a real challenge and is certainly an art in the blending of flavors. I try many new recipes and collect cookbooks. When I get upset or worried I just bake a cake or a pie."

READS BIOGRAPHIES

She said she loves to read biographies and also books on psychology.

"I try to figure out what makes some people tick and others not tick," she said.

And what about flowers and gardens in the day-by-day plan of this versatile woman?

"I think horticulture is very important and I enjoy digging in the yard and getting the feel and the smell of the good earth. I am a firm believer that flowers should be left in their natural habitat.

CAMELLIA CLUB

"I suppose people in the garden club circles will think I am terrible, but I think flowers are mistreated when they are cut to this and that length and all wired to make arrangements. Flowers are so lovely and beautiful that they form their own natural arrangement most anywhere and in any container."

Mrs. Wells is a member of the Camellia Garden Club and served once as vice president and project chairman. The club's project is the garden at the Atlanta Public Library branch at Peachtree and 16th streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells live in an attractive home on Moore's Mill road which is patterned after houses dotting Versailles, France, and is an adaptation of a French provincial style. They have laid old brick to form a patio and are now in the process of building a brick wall.

When their son, Tommy, is not too busy with teen-age activities and work at Westminster schools, he lends a hand with the brick laying.

And speaking of Tommy, Mrs. Wells admitted another ambition.

"You know, I'd give anything if I could jitterbug through an entire record with my son!"

Committee Names Mrs. McLanahan

Mrs. Alexander McLanahan's picture, with Lucrezia Bori and Edward Johnson, appearing last week in the New York Times, told the news of her appointment to the subscription committee for the benefit performance of "Tosca" at the Met in New York on Dec. 5.

Miss Bori, a former Met star, is chairman of the committee. Proceeds will aid the Bagby Music Lovers Foundation's pension fund for opera and concert artists in need. Mr. Johnson is president of the beneficiary.

Mrs. McLanahan, a former Georgian, and her husband are just back from France where they spent the summer at their chateau in Burgundy. They took with them aboard the Mauretania their 3-year-old grandson, Alexander Gurr McLanahan. They were joined in Paris by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. McLanahan Jr. of Houston, Tex., who flew over, and then the family went to Burgundy. Sandy, as the 3-year-old is called, was the fourth generation to inhabit the historic home of the McLanahans which is still staffed by many of the servants who served his great-grandfather.

During the summer the McLanahans had as their guests at the chateau Lucrezia Bori and her brother, Col. Clair Irish, who incidentally is their son's godfather, Mrs. Sara Hastie of Charleston, and several Georgians including Capt. and Mrs. Edgar Duskin of Dawson and Cadet John Gurr of the U.S. Military Academy.

The McLanahans expect to spend Christmas in Houston with their son and his family, and to stop in Atlanta en route back to New York.

MARILYN MARGAL is the name given the second daughter born Nov. 8 at Emory Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. William O. Myrick. Mrs. Myrick is the former Jayne Johnson of Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Mrs. Lippitt's daughter, Sally, who accompanied her to Italy, will remain in Florence where she is studying stage designing with Count di Collatto.

MR. AND MRS. CLAYTON RICH and the John Westmorelands Jr. are back home after a fishing trip to Clearwater, Fla., where they spent the weekend aboard a boat in the Gulf of Mexico.

IMPORTANT VISITORS expected Thursday are Dr. and Mrs. William S. Dix of Princeton, N.J., who will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas H. English on N. Decatur road for two days. Dr. Dix is librarian at Princeton University and is to speak at the dinner marking the completion of the remodeling of the Asa Griggs Candler Library at Emory.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM C. BOWMAN returned Sunday to their home in Montgomery after spending several days here.

A group of Atlanta friends of the Bowmans will go to Montgomery to attend a cocktail supper at which they will be hosts on Nov. 29. The party will be held at the Officers' Club at Maxwell AFB.

THIS WEEK FINDS newly-wed Mr. and Mrs. Jack P. Ashmore Jr. in the throes of getting settled in their new home at 1550 Shoup Ct., Decatur. The pair returned yesterday from their honeymoon to Nassau. The bride is the former Blythe Posey.

EVERYTHING IS IN READINESS at the Blue Ridge avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Ivey for a visit from the latter's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Fambrough. The pair will arrive tomorrow from Jacksonville for a stay of 10 days.

ANOTHER NAME BAND headed for the Atlanta Athletic Club is Jan Garber and his musicians, who will play for a dinner-dance there on Friday evening.

DR. AND MRS. R. A. BARTHOLOMEW and Dr. and Mrs. Harold McDonald are just back from Mexico where they attended a meeting of the Mexican Urological Society in Merida, spent a week in Mexico City, and visited Guadalajara where Mr. Bartholomew read a paper at a symposium sponsored by the medical school of the University of Guadalajara.

The Atlantans were extensively entertained in Guadalajara and Puebla, one of their hostesses in the latter city being Mrs. Wilson Rocha, the former Ashby Jones of Atlanta.

Mrs. John Lee and her daughter, Dena, who accompanied them, are now in Mexico City for an indefinite stay.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Woman's Guide to Better Living

Make Home Place Family Wants To Be

CHAPTER IX

Proper Mixture of Fact and Fancy

The Eighth Maturity

Condensed from the book, "Dr. Schindler's Woman's Guide to Better Living" by John A. Schindler, M.D. Copyrighted 1957 by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

Fact and fancy, or common sense and conjecture, are all mixed up and tangled together in a helter-skelter fashion in our world. Well over half the things the total population of the world believes are not true.

We are interested in the mature attitude toward fact and fancy a woman needs in her immediate world.

It is an excellent rule to keep away from the variety of fancy known as reverie, daydreaming, or "building castles in the air."

Reverie creates a detachment from disher, waxed floors, overdue payments on baby's clothes the TV set, and the car; it affords a relief from the sorry condition of your hair, and the miserable mess all over the house.

Reverie sounds wonderful, whether it is provided by simple daydreaming or by a candy diet enriched with romantic novels, TV programs and the movies On the surface at least, reverie looks like the answer to the unmitigated idiocy and colossal chore of housework. And it would be, except for the four short words, "It does not work."

Gossip is a common way in which women sometimes resort to fancy and do incredible harm to people who are innocent, or additional harm to guilty people who, instead of another kick, need society's help.

The mechanics of good housekeeping—the job which occupies the greater part of a woman's time and attention — comes as close to being almost a pure exercise in common sense, unadulterated by fancy, as anything in human experience.

But the over-all task of homemaking requires creative imagination, and creative imagination usually results in establishing ideals of the kind of home you wish to create.

Be careful about ideals. They are not an unmixed blessing. The kind of ideals to have are those that are ideas for living, as though the word "ideal" were derived from "idea" plus "l" (standing for "living") equals an idea for living. In this meaning, an idea is a plan for riding through the difficulties that living imposes, in a way that has been found by experience to be effective, but a flexible plan that can be altered and improved upon as the need arises.

REASONABLE IDEALS

Here are some ideals for homemaking: 1. Choose ideals that stand a reasonable chance of fulfillment. Do not choose ideals that are impossibly high and beyond common sense. It would be silly, for instance, for a woman with a low income, and destined to remain in the low income bracket, to have an ideal of living in a style and type of house far above her means.

2. Regard an ideal as a standard you would like to attain, and not an all-or-none matter on the attainment of which you are staking all your happiness. Never think of an ideal as something that must be realized or all will be lost.

3. Pick the kind of ideals that have a running value, a day-today value, instead of a value whose attainment is reached only at the end of many years. Or another way of putting it: have ideals that are ways of living, rather than ideals that are ends in themselves.

4. Ideals should never be so fixed that they cannot be altered or replaced in the face of unforeseen conditions. Creative imagination is an adequate substitute for the finest unattainable ideal. A lady I knew set her mind on her only son becoming a chemical engineer like his father. She very nearly crushed him trying to force him through high school, and when he turned out not to be college material, which every one else had known for years, she met the situation with complete disappointment, frustration, and rejection of her son.

Home is the place where members of the family come for at least two purposes — eating and sleeping.

The best test for the worth of the home is whether its members wish to stay there in preference to any other place open to them.

As Robert Frost put it, "Home is the place where, when you have to go there, they have to take you in." We might add, "A good home is the place you prefer to be whether you have to go there or not."

TEST FOR HOME

The biggest single drawing card of the home is the mother in it, just as she may be the force in some homes that induces the others to stay away. A Chinese proverb has it, "A hundred men may make an encampment, but it takes a woman to make a home."

Here are some ideals as to the kind of place a home should be:

1. Your first ideal is to make the home the kind of place your family wants to stay in above all other places. The determining factors will be what you add to the place, physically and spiritually.

2. Your second ideal is to keep the place orderly and neat. It needn't be spotless and dust-free, except where these might hit one in the eye as a disorder.

3. The third ideal is to fix up the house as tastefully as your means will permit.

An important part of this ideal is to get as much beauty — ritual, if you will, but "graceful living" is the better term — into the home and home life.

About the least you can do as a housewife is to carry the meal to the dining room. Of course it will take more work, you'll use more dishes (I hope), you'll have a more tastefully set table than in the kitchen, you'll be inclined to cook better and a greater variety, and you'll have to carry everything back to the kitchen (don't leave the salt, sugar and a pile of dishes on the table). But the additional trouble will more than repay you in the way of the dignity and grace that is added to everyone's living.

And last, but far from least, there is yourself. Fix yourself up, too! Fit yourself into the picture of graceful living.

A wonderful elderly housewife I once knew gave her daughter, who also turned out to be a fabulous housekeeper, just one simple piece of advice when the daughter was about to be married. It was simply, "Be sure and comb your hair before breakfast." The idea in that remark covers the matter. But let's drive it home a little deeper.

STILL A POWER

Femininity is still a power from which women should resist being emancipated. A wife who is habitually slovenly and dowdy is neither a happy thought for a husband nor a pleasant sight to meet. The desire to come home to it, the courage to view it, gradually and slowly weakens.

4. A fourth ideal is to provide your home with enough recreational facilities to keep everyone happy.

5. A fifth ideal is to spend no more money on yourself and the family than you can afford.

Your Stars Today

"There is no restraining men's tongues or pans when charged with a little vanity." —Washington.

Daily Guide—Action and reaction today rather involved with resulting hangover from emotional indulgences. Changes and unexpected upsets can make the day rather hectic. Tension may be felt, especially by Scorpians, Taureans, Leos and Aquarians. For the Taureans personal relationships can be complicated; seek the true facts before acting or making decisions.

Leos with birthdays during the first week of August need to keep alert and ready adjust to changing conditions and sudden events during the coming week. Sagittarians need to attend to correspondence, to contact people, clear up everyday details in the coming weeks.

Daily Guide—You may be confused right now, so take action only after due consideration. Be careful of your own motives and discipline yourself, and do not be gullible to the glamor of some dreams and ambitions.

Changing circumstances can bring upsets in career or business, or make your place in life unpredictable through unconventional behavior. Next year many benefits can be expected to cheer you and bring prestige, social expansion and financial gain. At present hold down spending and guard health.

TIPS FROM DECORATOR

Red and Yellow Catch a Fellow

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK. Nov. 12 (IP)—The color of a man's home shows where his heart is, says an interior decorator.

In doubt about his true character? Check his choice of color schemes, said Linda Glass, who specializes in bachelor apartments. Cool colors reflect a cold heart. Bright colors mean he's warmhearted.

"I've found that most bachelors and divorced men want dark, cool colors—grey, green, black, blue or stark white. They resist any touch of warmth because their personalities are cold. I guess that's why they live alone," said Mrs. Glass, a long-time decorator who reopened her own shop four years ago after her child was grown.

BACHELORS

"I didn't intend to concentrate on bachelors, but it happens most of my clients, including women, live alone," she said.

Do women follow the same color patterns as men?

"Definitely not. Women, married or single, usually prefer warm colors. Bright shades go with a home and family.

"If a woman doesn't have a family, warm colors make her think she has, or at least take away that lonely feeling."

HUSBANDS NOT FUSSY

Married men aren't so fussy about colors.

"They don't have a chance to decide with a wife around. If a husband wants cool colors, don't argue—but don't give in. Just give him a comfortable chair all his own and keep the bedroom tailored. After that, getting your own way will be easy.

"Businessmen — married or single — go for simplicity. They're tired when they come home and want to relax, and they can't do that in a cluttered room.

SINGLE WOMEN DRAMATIC

"Most men insist on modern furniture—long, low and sleek. Actually, they want a mother around to do things for them. They don't want to have to move an inch. So the next best thing is functional furniture, keeping everything within easy reach.

"Most men also are conservative. Single career women are the dramatic ones," she said.

Mrs. Glass finds it easier to decorate for men than women. "Men are not price conscious, will take suggestions and don't insist on shopping around."

A tip for gals who want to rescue a man from bachelor ranks:

"Use lots of warm colors—plenty of reds and yellows. They make men think of home, children and settling down. Remember the saying, 'red and yellow catch a fellow.'"

Their marriage took place Sunday evening at the Temple, with Rabbi Jacob Rothschild officiating. Lt. Linnick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Linnick.

He chose his father as his best man and serving as his usher-groomsmen were Robert Hirshberg, Edward Lazarus, William Gurwitch, Harrel Sivitz, Fabian Olensky and Stanley Linnick.

Mrs. Mark Marcus was matron of honor for her sister. The latter's bridesmaids were Miss Susan Haas and Mrs. J. Fleschman.

Miss Prince, Mr. Parham Are Married

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Prince Jr. of Morganton announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rebecca Josephine Prince, to Donald Merritt Parham, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Parham of Clarksville.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Prince of Mineral Bluff, with the Rev. George Stuart of Fry as the officiant.

After a wedding trip the couple will come to Atlanta to reside at 830 Myrtle St., NE.

Howard Parham of Columbus was best man for his brother, and the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Prince, as maid of honor. Judy Brumbelow of Marietta, the bride's small cousin, was flower girl.

The altar tapers were lighted by Billy Prince and Larry Free of Clarksville.

Ursrey Backs Duncan To Head Farm Bureau

By CHARLES MOORE
Constitution Staff Writer

MACON, Nov. 12—Lawton Ursrey of Hazlehurst said Tuesday he would not be a candidate for the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation presidency and said he would vote for the only announced candidate—John Duncan Jr. of Quitman—in Wednesday's election.

Ursrey released a statement that he attributed to his supporters which said they "will not play against a stacked deck" at the Farm Bureau's 19th annual convention here.

"After knowing John (Duncan), I am satisfied he is qualified and has the experience to make a good president of the Georgia Farm Bureau," Ursrey said.

Ursrey denied that he had charged Duncan with being a "handpicked" candidate for the presidency. He said that charge was made by his supporters.

H. L. (Tiny) Wingate, who is retiring Wednesday after 17 years as head of the Farm Bureau because of his health, Tuesday threw cold water on a reported movement to "draft" him for a new term.

Wingate called for a unanimous election of his successor and for an end to all mention that he serve again.

Senator Herman Talmadge, Tuesday's convention keynote speaker, called upon Georgia farmers to organize as effectively as the NAACP to get a fair share of the nation's income for themselves.

"If farmers were as well organized as the NAACP, cotton would bring one dollar a pound," Talmadge told the applauding delegates.

The state's junior senator said he "is not too optimistic about the chances of a real farm program" being enacted in the next session of Congress. He added that measures affecting only one commodity stand a poor chance of passing.

Reasons for the cloudy political outlook, Talmadge said, was "a Secretary of Agriculture (Benson) whose only program is to starve enough people off the farm so that the rest can earn a living," and because farmers themselves are badly divided on what would be the best farm policy.

State Agricultural Commissioner Phil Campbell charged Eisenhower and the Republican administration have "attempted to buy the city vote with cheap farm products and have failed because of their lack of knowledge of economics."

In resolutions passed by the convention the farm bureau urged an amendment to increase from 25 cents to $1 a ton. The deduction from the sale of peanuts, to be used to promote the sale of peanuts and peanut products.

Water Needs For 50 Years To Be Discussed

The 50 years' future outlook on water and sewer needs of Atlanta and six surrounding counties will be discussed Nov. 18 at the Capital City Club.

Fulton County's commissioners have scheduled a dinner meeting at 6 p.m. for that date at which a representative of the New York engineering firm of Frederic R. Harris, Inc., will explain the results of the survey to representatives of the counties.

The firm Wednesday filed their survey report with the Fulton commissioners on water and sewer needs of Fulton, DeKalb, Clayton, Cobb, Douglas and Gwinnett counties.

The survey calls for formation of a consolidated water and sewer authority and construction of a vast water supply network by the year 2006 to meet needs for an estimated population of 2.4 mil-

$5.6 Million Road Bids To Be Let

Bids on approximately $5,600,000 of new road construction will be opened by the State Highway Board and Rural Roads Authority on Nov. 15.

The largest project on the list calls for construction of 7.23-mile segment of the new Federal Interstate highway system in Tift County.

The work, which will include four grade separation structures, will begin at the city limits of Tifton and extend north towards Cordele.

Also up for bidding is 6.574 miles of paving and one bridge in Floyd County, the first leg of a new Rome-Cartersville road.

The contracts to be let on the basis of the Nov. 15 bidding will make a total of some 57 million dollars of contracts let this year. The total work contracted in 1956 amounted to 39 millions.

Other projects on which bids will be received Friday are:

Colquitt and Worth Counties—13.228 miles paving on the Doerun-Funston road, the Doerun-Worth County Line road, and the Funston-Meigs-Moultrie road.

Effingham County—4.92 miles paving on the Rincon-State Route 275 road.

Montgomery County—4.161 miles paving on the Old River road and the State Route 135-Old River road.

Many Symptoms Are The Same
For Colds and Asian Flu

At this critical time you want to do all you can to safeguard your family. So be extra careful. When nasal stuffiness, coughs and local bronchial congestion tell you trouble is on the way...don't try to guess whether it's a cold or Asian Flu. Be sure you do these important things:

1. If running a fever call your doctor. Aspirin is usually recommended.
2. For relief and extra comfort from nasal stuffiness, coughs and local bronchial congestion—so often associated with colds and Asian Flu—use Vicks VapoRub according to directions in package.

PROVED BY ATOM TRACER TESTS

Atom tracer tests made in a nuclear research laboratory proved...Vicks VapoRub acts faster and works hours longer than other types of medication.

When you rub VapoRub over area of lungs and heart, back and chest...it acts instantly to relieve symptoms that make you feel miserable, symptoms aspirin can't touch. And VapoRub keeps on working for as long as 10 hours to make you feel better.

NOTE: Adequate diagnosis and treatment for Asian Flu requires your doctor. Vicks VapoRub can bring immediate relief from the annoying symptoms common to both colds and Asian Flu—stuffed nose, coughs and local bronchial congestion. More families throughout the world are depending on VapoRub than on any other cold medication.

A Coach for Hire?

TUSCALOOSA, Nov. 12 — After the Tuscaloosa quarterbacks broke up their weekly huddle Monday night, an Alabama alumnus discussed the football situation at the Capstone. He was a qualified speaker, for he had been with the once mighty Red Elephants on bowl trips to Pasadena, New Orleans, Dallas and Miami. And he has remained just as loyal during the lean years.

"Dr. James Rose, our new Alabama president, will have to reach a decision on the new football coach after the board makes a recommendation," he said. "And Dr. Rose won't make a more important decision at Alabama.

Outlar

"Perhaps it shouldn't be this way," he continued. "Perhaps we put too much emphasis on football, but that's the way it is. All over the state, they're asking the same question. They want to know who will be the new coach?"

In fact, that's about the only football conversation you hear. You have to stop by the practice field to discover that Alabama is playing Georgia Tech in Birmingham Saturday.

Until the past few years, successful football teams were an Alabama trademark. Before most Southern teams stuck foot in a bowl, Alabama had made six visits to the Rose Bowl, and lost only once. The Tide hasn't gone bowling but twice in almost a decade, yet it has 12 bowl trophies on the shelf.

Under Wallace Wade and Frank Thomas, Alabama was a perennial football power. The present poll fad wasn't in vogue in those days, but Alabama would have rated in the top 10 almost every year.

—The Alumni Divided and Alabama Fell

Statistics are often boring, but they provide an accurate gauge of Alabama's success. From 1904 until 1951, the Tide never dipped below the .500 level.

Accustomed to prosperity, defeat was a pill the Alabama supporters couldn't swallow. So they began to wrangle among themselves after the 1951 campaign. They cheered again when Red Drew's clubs rebounded for bowl appearances on New Year's of '53 and '54.

The howls started again after the '54 season, and Coach J. B. Whitworth replaced Drew. Whitworth never had the full-fledged support of the Alabama alumni. He did have a three-year contract which, of course, expires next month.

It is impossible to please alumni, and they divided sides after Whitworth returned to Alabama. Only three triumphs in three years have followed. Whatever the reason for it, the record is there. So Whitworth is leaving.

Under the present circumstances, Alabama can't afford to guess wrong on the new coach. And the new coach will be under tremendous pressure from the moment he places his name on a contract. So will Dr. Rose. Unfortunately, many members of the alumni will judge the new president entirely on the success of the new coach.

It has been a long time since the Alabama crowd agreed on anything. Now, however, most of them agree Bear Bryant is the man for the job.

—The Football Land of Mink and Money

The seven-man board appointed by Dr. Rose to recommend a successor to Whitworth has remained mum. But it must reach a choice by Dec. 1. Obviously the choice will be Bryant.

But Bryant is living high off the football hog in the land of mink and money. He has elevated Texas A&M from the Southwest Conference basement to the No. 1 team in the nation.

The Aggies won't surrender Bryant without a financial battle, and the Bear has told close friends that he has no intention of leaving Texas. Why start at the bottom again when he's on top?

However, Bryant told close friends the same thing before he departed from Kentucky. It won't be made public unless Bryant accepts, but I'm positive that he'll be offered the job.

You hear many names mentioned, and the board is doing a thorough job. Every major college commissioner has been asked to recommend the most promising coach in his conference. Big name coaches have sung the praises of capable assistants. Even eager alumni have contributed names.

If Bryant can't be bulged from Texas A&M, it wouldn't be surprising to see Wade Walker shift to Tuscaloosa from Miss. State. He ranks high with some of the board members.

Jim Tatum, Earle Edwards, Red Saunders, Frank Broyles, Bob Bossons. You hear those names and many others tossed about. But most of the 'Bama backers preface their remarks by saying, "If we can't get Bryant."

There's no doubt that Alabama needs a man like Bryant. He's a sound and successful football coach. He's a master recruiter, and he can be as tough as they come. And the man who comes to Alabama will have to be tough . . . until the Tide rises again. And it will eventually . . . with or without Bryant.

PCL Realignment Plan Fails in Committee Vote

Merger of Coast League Teams With American Assn. Suggested

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—A new plan for realignment of the Pacific Coast League and other high minors was submitted today after the original plan failed to meet approval of the circuits involved.

Ford Frick

Commissioner Ford Frick, who made this announcement after the committee had haggled over the realignment problem for more than five hours, admitted little progress was made. He expressed doubt whether another meeting would be held until the minor-major winter league convention in Colorado Springs next Dec. 2.

"It seems doubtful that any definite agreement on realignment will be reached before the Colorado Springs meeting," the commissioner said. "The original suggestion on realignment failed to meet approval of the leagues involved."

Frick not only declined to reveal either of the proposals for realignment, but refused to identify any of the leagues other than the Pacific Coast League. However, it is no secret that the Texas League and the American Association are the other circuits involved.

"We are trying to work out something equitable without drafting," Frick said. "I think it is possible although I am not as hopeful as I was 10 days ago."

It was learned from another source, however, that the rejected plan called for Houston and Dallas franchises of class AA to be transferred to the Pacific Coast League to replace Los Angeles and San Francisco, the clubs invaded by the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, respectively.

According to the source, which cannot be doubted, officials of the Pacific Coast League and the American Association have secretly discussed a merger of the two circuits. The ultimate result would be to form a 12-team league, divided into two divisions, northern and southern.

The teams would then play a 150-game schedule, teams of the same division playing 22 games. The plan also calls for inter-division play with each team playing four-game home and home series.

Asked directly whether a merger of the PCL and AA was discussed at the meeting, Frick showed his surprise. After a moment of consideration, he replied:

Savannahan, James Share Position for Upcoming Tide

By BERT PRATHER

Big Taz Anderson, the sophomore who put in a busy day between right half and fullback Saturday against Tennessee, may concentrate more on the halfback spot when Georgia Tech tangles with Alabama Saturday at Birmingham's Legion Field.

The 195-pound Savannahan, who was supposed to be held out this season but had to be drafted into service in the LSU game when Tim Singleton, filling in for the injured Joe DeLany also went out with a knee and ankle injury, will divide time at right half Saturday with Calvin James.

It has not yet been decided whether Anderson will work with the first or second unit. James started the first six games but gave way to DeLany last week against the Vols in Knoxville.

Now that DeLany has injured his shoulder again and may be out until the season's finale with University of Georgia here, Anderson will see plenty of action at half. He's come along fast and is rated a good defensive player and is gradually learning the art of advancing the ball, too. Taz came to Tech as an end and was switched to the backfield at start of fall practice.

With first unit fullback Lester Simerville looking better each game and big Sonny Jim Benson about recovered from a slight ankle sprain, the bucking slot should be capably manned for the Tide go.

Lefthalf Stan Flowers, the the only senior in the Jackets' starting backfield, and sophomore Floyd Faucette, who does a neat job of holding down the post on No. 2 unit, have fortunately escaped hobbling injuries and will be ready to bump heads with the boys from the Capstone Saturday. Incidentally, Stan The Man is Tech's leading rusher with 210 yards. Simerville is next with 158.

But regardless, Dover will see quite a bit of duty against Coach Ears Whitworth's boys. He'll have to do the kicking for the second unit, now that DeLany, the team's top booter, is sidelined. Senior left end Jerry Nabors will handle the booting chores for the starting eleven.

This contest ended in a draw when neither the red shirts nor

Indians Hire Lane As General Manager

Directors Promise Trader 'Free Hand' To Rebuild Tribe

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians today gave Frank (Trader) Lane the job of general manager and a free hand in getting the Tribe back on the first division warpath.

Lane, 61, a sharp-tongued inveterate swapper of baseball talent, resigned his position as head man in the front office of the St. Louis Cardinals to accept a three-year contract here.

He pulled the Chicago White Sox out of the depths and then went over to the National League and did a similar job for the Cardinals. But he was reported restless and cramped at St. Louis, where he had another year to go on a three-year pact.

"I have a lot of confidence in the future of Cleveland or else I certainly would not have taken the job," Lane said in an interview in St. Louis. "One thing we must do is rehabilitate the morale of the Cleveland fans."

He said he felt that Cleveland was a much better baseball town than the paid admissions showed last year.

William R. Daley, Cleveland financier who heads the tribe board of directors, announced Lane's appointment following a special meeting of the board and said he was selected "as the person best qualified to lead the Indians."

Daley did not disclose salary terms under which Lane will come here. There was speculation, however, that his pay would be $50,000 a year with a bonus based on attendance. In St. Louis he was believed to be getting a base salary of $40,000 a year with bonus s that ran it to around $60,000.

The board chairman told newsmen that Lane, who is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow, would be given a free hand in rebuilding the Tribe into a pennant contender.

Lane has his work cut out for him here. Plagued by injuries to pitchers Herb Score and Bob Lemon and several other key players, the Indians dropped last season from their perennial second-place finish to sixth in the American League. Attendance continued to fall off—from 865,467 in 1956 to 722,256 during the past season, third lowest in the major leagues.

Lane will have a new field manager to work with. At the close of last season general manager Hank Greenberg fired Kerby Farrell after one year as pilot of the Indians and hired Bobby Bragan, erstwhile manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Then Greenberg's fellow members of the board of directors

Bing Devine (L), Lane's Assistant, Succeeded Him About Three Hours Later

Devine New Cards' GM

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12 (AP) — Vaughan (Bing) Devine, a front office employe with the Cardinals for 18 years, was named St. Louis General manager today. He replaces Frank Lane who resigned earlier to become general manager of the Cleveland Indians.

Devine, whose official title before today was that of executive assistant to Lane, said:

"I appreciate the opportunity. As a long time organization man, and an original St. Louis resident, I'm very happy to accept the job.

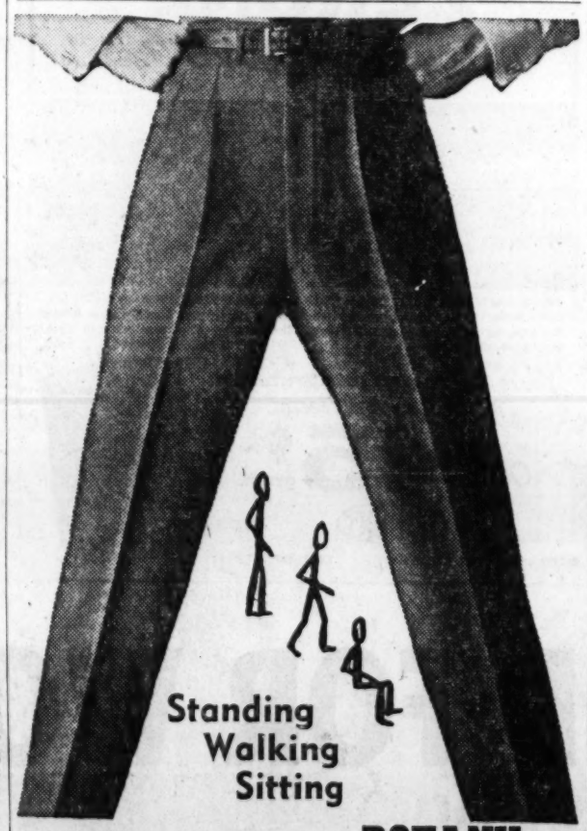

"It's overwhelming. The turn of events has been just as fast for me as it has been for you," Devine said as he spoke to reporters during a press conference in president August A. Busch's office.

Iowa Official Ordered To Quit Recruiting Aid

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—An official of the University of Iowa "I" Club has been prohibited from all recruiting contact with prospective athletes, Big Ten commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson announced today.

The official is E. K. Jones, secretary to the "I" Club.

Wilson said the action is in the nature of a penalty for violations of conference recruiting policies.

17-Yard Pass Catch, Defense Sparkled for Georgia Saturday

By DAN KITCHENS
Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, Nov. 12—A bright gleam in the otherwise-dark appearance of the Bulldogs in the Gator Bowl against Florida was the fine showing of native son Aaron Box.

Until Saturday, the 6-2½-inch, 195 sophomore from Live Oak, Fla., had appeared only briefly this fall. But injury and sickness to Georgia's end corps pushed him to the fore Saturday, and he showed speed and class that could do much to boost his stock.

Aaron Box

A regular on the Bullpup squad of 1956, Box flashed speed and pass-catching ability leading the Georgia coaching staff to eye him with anticipation. However, his advance seemed to slow with promotion to the varsity squad, and he took a back seat to other more experienced personnel.

With his speed and size and good catching hands, Box quite likely has more natural ability than almost any of the other Bulldog ends. He demonstrated his form against the Gators when he gave his team their only scoring opportunity late in the first half with a fine catch good for 17 yards and a first down at the Florida 37.

His effort went in vain, though, as an interception on the next play killed the Bulldog drive.

Just to prove that he is not a one-way player, the rangy Floridian stopped a Gator drive later in the game when he threw Florida's Jimmy Dunn and Barnie Parrish for losses on consecutive plays to allow the Bulldogs to take over the ball deep in their own territory.

His fine defensive tricks were also nullified by a Georgia fumble that gave the ball to the Gators before the Bulldogs could get it out of dangerous ground.

Box should furnish John Gregory, Bulldog end coach, with a relief man not counted on for heavy duty before the Florida game. He is likely to see more playing time in Georgia's two remaining games.

SCRIMMAGE SCRAPS—Trainer Sam Richwine reports that various injuries and illnesses are responding to treatment and that the Bulldogs will be in good shape for Saturday's Auburn game. . . . Junior right end Quinton Smith has shaken the flu bug and will be able to play. . . . Sophomore right guard Carter Ramsey, Savannah, has made good recovery from a knee operation, and will probably get a call. . . . Junior right guard Mike Anderson and soph quarterback Charlie Britt have both made quick progress from injuries suffered in the Jacksonville game that sidelined them for the last half of the Gator game. . . . Junior left tackle Riley Gunnels, who missed all of the Florida game, also has mended well from a hip injury and likely will be ready. . . . Junior left halfback George Whitton and soph right tackle Don Leebern will be "homecoming" Saturday. Both had outstanding prep careers at Columbus High.

TIBBETTS AT THROTTLE

SAYE DOUBTFUL FOR FROSH BATTLE

By PAUL ATKINSON

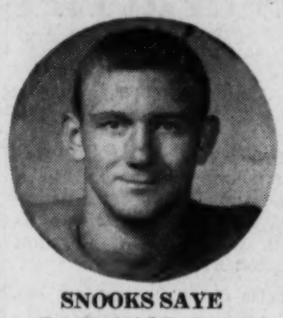

A very promising Georgia Tech freshman quarterback situation took a large wallop Tuesday when it was revealed that ex-Morgan County nifty Snooks Saye probably won't play in the Thanksgiving Shrine Game with the Georgia frosh.

"Snooks had a badly gashed knee from the Clemson game," coach Charlie Tate said. "He just got out of the hospital Saturday and is walking on crutches part of the time now.

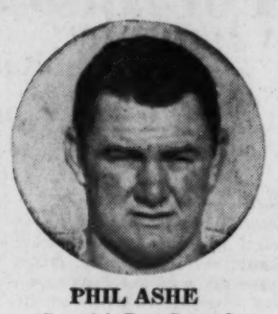

"It is very doubtful at this time if he will play. A muscle was severed in his knee by a cleat in a pileup, and it had to be cut away. Now the other muscles have to build up to compensate for the loss, and that takes time.

"Unless he is in real good shape the week of the game, he definitely won't be used."

With the possible loss of Saye, who had operated the No. 2 frosh unit so successfully in a 19-0 whaling of the South Carolina Biddies, considerably more of the quarterback burden will fall upon the broad shoulders of Marvin Tibbetts, the 6-1, 190-pound West Fulton guy.

SNOOKS SAYE
He's Doubtful Performer

Tibbetts, who failed to get his No. 1 unit into a touchdown mood in the Carolina opener, made rapid strides in the Baby Jackets' 30-0 drubbing of Clemson. He engineered three touchdowns, passed 46 yards for one to end Gerald Burch. In his only "keeper" off the split-T, he gained 13 yards.

PHIL ASHE
Georgia's Best Center?

Jimmy Sides, a 6-1, 186-pound youth from Helena, Ala., jumps into the No. 2 unit. Sides saw limited duty against Clemson, gaining 7 yards in 5 snaps; but going 0-for-2 passing.

Meanwhile in the Georgia camp, freshman coach Quinton Lumpkin, who manned the center post for the Bulldogs in the mid-1930s, had words of praise for his No. 1 center, Phil Ashe, the man-mountain of Stone Mountain.

Speaking at the DeKalb Quarterback Club Monday night, Lumpkin made this flat statement: "We believe that Ashe will become one of the greatest centers ever at Georgia."

This, from possibly the best of 'em all, is high commendation, indeed. And it is very likely that Ashe will back up his coach's prediction.

Ashe, a 6-2, 220-pound fellow who was the Class "B" lineman of the year in 1956, has all the qualifications needed. He's quick for his size, hits with much vigor and generally gets the job done.

Both Georgia and Tech squads anxiously await their meeting Nov. 28. Shrine officials said Tuesday that the public is also high on the game, especially since it is the first time in history that both squads have come up to the game undefeated and unscored-on. "We could have a sellout at Grant Field with a break in the weather," one official forecast.

Archer Beats Tony DeCola

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Aggressive Jimmy Archer bombed Tony DeCola's body throughout Monday night and scored his second straight triumph over his interborough rival and his 12th consecutive victory in a pulsating all-New York 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena. Archer was awarded a split decision.

Archer, 148, of the Bronx, staggered his Brooklyn foe twice and never let up in his body belting. He landed dozens of left hooks to the midsection but several strayed low and Archer was penalized the eighth round.

Referee Petey Della voted for DeCola, 5-4-4, but the two judges, Charley Rosen and Nick Gamboli each had Archer the winner, 6-4. The AP had Archer in front, 6-4.

SEC STATISTIC-LEADERS

Auburn Keeps Defense Lead, Moves Up in Offensive Race

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 12 (AP)—Auburn retained its defensive leadership and moved into second place in team offense after last week's Southeastern Conference football action.

And who did the Tigers bump from that second-place spot behind Mississippi's offensive champions?—Mississippi State, 15-7 losers to the mighty Auburn line last Saturday.

Statistics released by SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore today show that the average yardage yielded opposing teams by Auburn remained exactly the same after another week of conference warfare.

The Tigers have given up an average of 76.7 yards to enemy runners and exactly 60 to passers for a total of 136.7. Auburn is the only team in the league which has held opponents to less than 1,000 yards so far this season. The Tigers have begrudged 957.

Mississippi continues its offensive leadership with an average gain of 392.1 yards per game, 337.8 yards rushing and 54.4 passing. The Rebels now have rolled up a total of 3,137 yards and are the only SEC team to gain more than 3,000.

Auburn's record of holding other teams to 76.7 yards per contest is the finest ground defense in the SEC. Georgia Tech, second on defense with 165.6 yards allowed opponents per contest, has the best passing performance in this department.

Tech has held opposing passers to an average of 35.6 yards per meeting.

The 541 yards paced off against Georgia make the Bulldogs the most penalized club in the conference. Georgia Tech has gotten off lightest with 122 yards called against the Engineers.

Individually, Jimmy Taylor of LSU, Jimmy Orr of Georgia and Boyce Smith of Vanderbilt head the offensive departments. Taylor, who is also the top scorer in the conference, has rushed for 534 yards, 16 more than Bobby Cravens of Kentucky.

Orr, Georgia's speedy halfback, has caught 15 passes for 224 yards to lead the receivers, though Auburn's Jimmy Phillips has more yardage, 239 on six catches.

Smith tops the passers with 433 yards on 29 completions. Georgia Tech's Fred Braselton has the most completions, 42 in 73 attempts, for 374 yards.

15 Georgians Return For Their 'Homecoming'

Albany's Cleve Wester Leads Auburn into Columbus Game

Special to The Constitution

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 12—Saturday will be homecoming for 15 Georgians on Auburn's undefeated and untied football team when the Tigers meet the University of Georgia in Columbus, Ga.

All but three of the Georgia boys have played this season, Copeland, Halsall, and Myers. This threesome received injuries and haven't fully recovered.

The 208-pound Wester has been on of the biggest surprises of the Auburn team this season. Starting the fall as a second stringer, he won his right tackle starting berth after three games. The oddity here is that Auburn won all three games and coaches are reluctant to make changes when their team is winning.

Harvard, only a sophomore, has been a big man in the Tigers' offense all year. Although he guides the second unit chiefly, Coach Ralph Jordan often puts him with the first unit when the offense bogs down. It was Harvard who took his team down the field and set the stage for Billy Atkins' game-winning field goal against Georgia Tech. Bryant also engineered the first TD against Florida when he was at the reins of the first unit.

For Austin and Weekley, Saturday's game will really be a homecoming since both are natives of Columbus. Weekley has been second unit left guard for the Tigers for three years. Austin, starting the season down the list of centers, took over the second unit center duties two days before the opening game with Tennessee and no one can move him. In fact, few centers in the SEC can match the talented Austin.

Warren is one of the few Valdosta boys to ever play regular in the SEC. He has started three of the Auburn games to date and lettered last year as a junior.

Aggies Strengthen Grip on No. 1 Spot

Auburn Only Eight Points From Second-Place Sooners

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Texas A&M, Oklahoma and Auburn, with 22 victories and no defeats among them, continued to dominate the Associated Press college football poll today. The powerful Aggies, who can wrap up the Southwest Conference title this Saturday, held first place by a comfortable margin.

With 184 of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters participating, Texas A&M received 60 first-place votes and 1,577 points on the usual basis of 10 for first, nine for second, etc. The Aggies, unbeaten in eight starts, go up against Rice this weekend in what could be the conference clincher.

The competition for second place was much closer with Oklahoma edging Auburn by only eight points. The Sooners, 7-0 for the season, collected 46 first place votes and 1,411 points. Auburn was put on top by 42 voters and drew 1,403 points.

The 10 leading teams remained virtually unchanged. Michigan State held the No. 4 position, followed by Iowa and Ohio State. Tennessee, by virtue of its 21-6 conquest of Georgia Tech last Saturday, moved up two notches to seventh place.

Navy and Army dropped from seventh and eighth to ninth and 10th as Mississippi jumped into the eighth spot.

TRIPPI REPORTS

Poor PCL Grid Play Pure Gold for Pros

By CHARLIE TRIPPI
Former Georgia and Chicago Cardinal Star

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—In years ago even the most optimistic pro football fan would have been scoffed at had he predicted a 100,000-person gate in pro football. Well, we had it.

In fact, 102,368 saw the Los Angeles Rams whip the 49ers last Sunday in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. And reports from the West Coast indicate that more than 10,000 were turned away. One reason for the tremendous increase on the West Coast can be attributed to the poor caliber of college football.

Charley Trippi

Since the PCC house cleaning the fans have turned to the pros for excitement. It's a fact that once these fans get a taste of pro ball it will be tough for the West Coast schools to rewin their patronage.

The fact that Tom Wilson, Los Angeles halfback and the NFL's leading ball carrier, never played college football proves a boy doesn't have to be an all-American or a "big time" college player to become a pro star. For the first six games Wilson had carried the ball 97 times for 496 yards—an average of 5.1 per carry.

Rumors prior to the opening of the pre-season schedule by the NFL had Creghton Miller, head of the players' union, ready to call a strike unless players' demands were met by league owners. No strike. Players received $50 for each pre-season game and meal money was upped from $6 to $9 per day. It would have been strange at that, "No game today. Players on strike."

—Packers Victim of Bad Call on Pass

From my seat in the scouts' press box of Wrigley Field and in the opinion of several other coaches—the Green Bay Packers were the victims of somebody's "muff." The play occurred directly below us and there wasn't any question that Joe Johnson legally caught the pass for a TD. The game was tied at the time and the Bears went on to score in the final minute to win the game. The Packers protested the decision but to no avail. Those are the plays that take the heart out of a team—especially in a close game.

The Cleveland Browns are the top defensive team in the NFL. They have allowed but 63 points in seven games, an average of just nine points per game. In case you're wondering about the record for the fewest points allowed during a season—it's 20—set by the New York Giants in 13 games played in 1927.

Baltimore's Colts finally managed to "do unto others as they have done unto you." After losing three games in the final seconds of play, the Colts turned around and won one from the Washington Redskins with only 50 seconds remaining on the scoreboard. This was a big win for the Colts—it kept their championship hopes alive and they picked up a game on the 49ers. Baltimore will have a golden opportunity this Sunday if they can whip the Bears for a second time while the 49ers and Detroit are fighting it out in the Motor City.

It's almost a cinch that the NFL's bonus baby of 1957 and several of the No. 1 draft choices will come from the South. John Crow of Texas A&M, Phil King of Vanderbilt, Mike Sommers of George Washington, Charlie Kruger of Texas A&M, Lou Michaels of Kentucky and Jim Phillips of Auburn are expected to be grabbed up in a hurry.

—No Love Lost on Field by 'Mo Boys'

The Chicago Cardinals will have the bonus choice unopposed this year. The Cards are the only team in the league which have not had the bonus.

Did You Know Dept.—In 1933 the NFL clipping penalty cost the "clipper" 25 yards. The first pro game was played at Latrobe, Penn., Aug. 31, 1895. Final score: Latrobe 12, Jeannette 0. In 1930 the maximum number of players on each team was set at 20. It's 35 in 1957.

Two of pro football's greatest backs met head-on last Sunday at Yankee Stadium. In my opinion the greatest all-around back in football today is Frank Gifford of New York, while honors as the greatest running back go to Ollie Matson of the Cardinals.

Dick Modzelewski, Giant tackle, whose brother Ed is fullback for Cleveland, says "Ed is my brother and I love him. But on the field he wears a white shirt and I wear blue and we don't know each other. Oh, once in a while I talk to him. When I tackle him I say, "You didn't get too many yards, did you?" or he'll say, "Is that the hardest you can hit?"

Wildcats Shellack Chamblee

Baxter, Cleveland, Rogers Set Pace

Halfback Julian Baxter, hobbled with injuries this season, laid his golden hands on a football only twice Tuesday, but he turned both opportunities into touchdowns as Westminster routed Chamblee, 39-0, in a Region 4-AA East makeup game at Westminster Green.

Baxter galloped 52 yards for a third - quarter touchdown, and took a 21-yard pass from quarterback Bobby Cleveland for a second. Cleveland pitched a second TD aerial, hitting Hicks Lanier with an 18-yard effort, and scored a third six-pointer himself on a three-yard keeper.

Yardstick

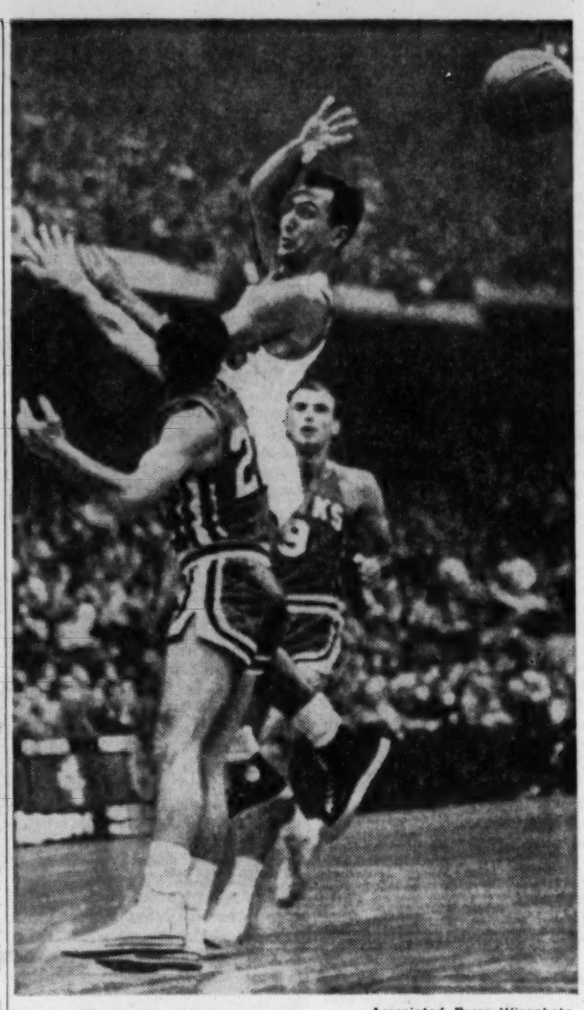

CHAMBLEE (0)		W'MINSTER (39)
3	First Downs	12
44	Yards Rushing	220
1	Yards Passing	60
20	Yards Penalized	45

The bone-jarring rushes of fullback Ronnie Rogers, a converted end, got the big yardage. Rogers lugged for 126 yards and a touchdown in 15 snaps.

Tackle Stewart Gager made eight tackles and had considerable assistance from linebacker Inman Allen and defensive end Bill Darby in restricting Chamblee to three first downs, and only 45 yards net offense.

Westminster Scoring—TDs: Cleveland (3, end run); Rogers (3, plunge); Baxter 2 (52, end run; 21, run-pass from Cleveland). PAT: Rains 3 (placements).

BOB COUSY MISSES ONE—ON A REBOUND

Celtics Aim at 15 Straight Record

DETROIT, Nov. 12 (AP) — Lou Tsioropoulos and "deadeye" Bill Russell are keys to the Boston Celtics' ten-game winning streak fashioned despite a sub par squad.

The unbeaten Celts, defending champions of the National Basketball Assn., are aiming for the record of 15 straight victories at the start of the season and the overall of 17 in a row.

Coach Red Auerbach had hand in both streaks as pilot of the old Washington Capitols.

"This team is better right now than when they won the playoffs last spring because: one, Russell is 20 pounds heavier than he was and is shooting 20 per cent better," Auerbach said.

"And, two, because we have Lou Tsioropoulos who I think is a better ball player now than Dick Hemric was last year. In addition I have Frank Ramsey and Russell right from the start which makes the organization of the team much better than it was a year ago."

Russell did not join the team until after starring for the United States in the Olympic games and Ramsey was not released from service until mid-season.

Tsioropoulos has been outstanding in plugging the gap left by the hobbling Jungle Jim Loscutoff—a cornerman with a flair for defense and rebounding.

Loscutoff injured a knee in the first minute of the third game and hasn't played since.

Boston now has lost Lou temporarily because of the flu.

Amazing Bob Cousy played 42 minutes in Monday night's 92-88 triumph over St. Louis at Boston. It was the longest stint for the back court ace who missed two games and was limited to an average of 23 minutes in six others because of the flu.

Russell, great as ever defensively, is contributing 21 points a game as compared with 41 a year ago. Monday night he blocked Bob Pettit's bid for a tying goal and scored four points in the final minute. He grabbed 29 of Boston's 63 rebounds.

Auerbach directed Washington to 15 straight victories at the start of the 1948-1949 season. His team also put together 17 in a row back in 1946.

Machen Seeks 'Big Win' Against the Hurricane

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Undefeated Eddie Machen, the No. 1 heavyweight boxing contender, battles to boost his prestige against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson tomorrow night.

Since a nationwide television audience (ABC) will look in on the 12-rounder starting at 7 p.m. PST at the Cow Palace, Machen says he wants to "win big" to gain public demand that he get a shot at the title.

With San Francisco blacked out on the video, a gate of $60,000 is anticipated.

Champion Floyd Patterson's manager Cus Amato, feuding with the International Boxing Club, so far hasn't evidenced any interest in a bout with Machen. He claims the contender's manager, Sid Flaherty, was too chummy with the IBC.

Jackson, from St. Albans, Long Island, hasn't fought since last July 29 when Patterson stopped him in the 10th round after handing out a brutal beating. The Hurricane was hospitalized briefly after that fight but now says he's in better shape than ever.

Machen feels that he'll need a solid victory over Jackson to stand any chance of getting the title fight he wants.

Machen, 25, from Redding, Calif., has won 23 fights, 15 of them by knockouts. In his 1957 starts he has beaten Joey Maxim twice, outpointed Big Bob Baker and knocked out Edgardo Romero.

In 36 pro bouts, Jackson has a 29-6-1 record.

Sagging Rams First With Fans

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP)—How can a football team with a 2-4 record lure 102,368 spectators and have to turn away 10,000 for a midseason game?

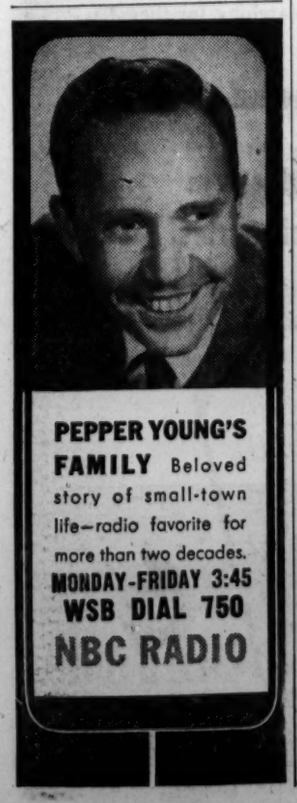

Ticket takers were virtually beating off the fans while the Los Angeles Rams were beating off the San Francisco 49ers at Memorial Coliseum Sunday.

Today the talk of the nation's No. 1 football town isn't the 37-24 Ram victory but the attendance figure that set a record for the National Football League.

The Rams' general manager, Pete Rozelle, says the turnout wasn't exactly a surprise. The 49ers are a traditional rival and always draw well here, as the Rams do in San Francisco. This was the third meeting of the clubs this year. There were 59,637 in the much smaller Kezar Sadium in San Francisco and 75,172 in an exhibition in Los Angeles.

Interest in professional football has been increasing steadily in Los Angeles since owner Dan Reeves moved the club here from Cleveland in 1946. Since 1951 Los Angeles has been the pacesetter for the NFL in attendance, regardless of where they finished in the team standings.

For instance, the Rams finished in a tie for last place in 1956, yet the attendance was one of the best ever. Although the Rams won only four and lost eight, they drew 886,895, not too far back of the 900,000 plus that watched the 1951 Rams win the world championship.

CONSTITUTION'S PREP LEADERS

MARIST, GAINESVILLE, GILMER ADVANCE

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Marist of Atlanta, Gainesville, Vidalia and Tennille shocked four highly-regarded Georgia high school football teams over the week-end and forged into The Constitution's "Big Ten" in their own clasifications. Gilmer County, too, closed with a rush to gain a coveted spot.

Charlie Roberts

Coach Boots Payne's Maristers, who this week have the opportunity to wrest the Region 4-AAA South championship from Decatur and present it to Griffin, thrashed Southwest DeKalb, 19-0, and kept the losers from gaining a tie with Griffin for a share of the crown. Thus did the parochial school batter its way into tenth place in the Class AAA ratings.

Graham Hixon's powerful Gainesville unit stunned stout Athens, 20-14, and wrested the AA nine spot from Fitzgerald, which was tamed by Waycross, 21-0.

Bob Gudger's Gilmer County Bobcats from Ellijay capped off a 7-3-0. season. by burying Pickens County under a 57-0 touchdown blanket and nabbing tenth slot in A.

Harvey McNease's Vidalia Indians downed tough Montgomery County, 27-13, and annexed tenth spot in B succeeding Terrell County, which fell to second slot Quitman, 27-7.

Gene Anderson's oft-terrific Tennille Tigers and always-terrific Lanier Gunby put a 19-7 slug on strong Wrens and leaped into eighth place in C. Wrens fell from ninth place out of ranking.

Northside and Columbus belted O'Keefe, 40-6, and LaGrange, 21-12, and remained one-two in AAA. Valdosta, Waycross and Avondale whacked Thomasville, 27-6, Fitzgerald, 21-0, and Druid Hills, 19-0, and continued as the top three in AA.

Statesboro, Lakeview, Elberton and Screven County, the last two idle, retained the top four slots in A as Statesboro whipped Appling County, 20-0, and Lakeview walloped Ringgold, 27-7. Idle Fort Valley, Quitman, Trion, Blakely Union and idle Rabun County held the first five slots in B. Trion and Blakely socked Summerville and AA Miller County, 28-0 and 19-6.

Waynesboro, Dade County, Monticello and Acworth continued as top four in C. Only Dade, 35-7 winner over Georgia School for the Deaf, played a game.

A big shuffle was in the cards for the middle part of the AAA ratings. Decatur jumped two spots to third by handing Marietta its first defeat, 17-0. Atlanta Grady dropped one place to fourth on a 20-20 tie with North Fulton, which bettered itself two slots to fifth. Marietta descended two places to sixth, pushing idle Griffin down to seventh. Benedictine kept its eighth hole by beating Glynn Academy, 12-6, and Savannah stepped up a stair to ninth on a 41-0 whacking of Jenkins.

Rockmart shot ahead of Thomasville into fourth in AA with a 33-6 rollick past Pepperell. Smyrna Campbell, South Cobb, Murray County and Cairo continued 6, 7, 8 and 10. Only Smyrna, 14-7 conqueror of Fairburn, and Cairo, 35-20 victor over Irwin County, played.

Idle North Habersham slipped ahead of Forest Park, beaten by College Park, 20-0, to fifth in A. Carrollton tied West Point, 0-0, and remained seventh. Jonesboro and Sandersville, both idle, forged ahead a step each to eighth and ninth.

Reidsville and Tucker, winners over ECI and Jefferson, 33-0 and 27-7, edged ahead one place apiece to sixth and seventh in B, easing idle Bradwell Institute down to eighth. Dudley Hughes, Buford and Greensboro tripped Baldwin, 20-0; Central Gwinnett, 44-13, and Wadley, 50-6, and picked up a notch each to fifth,

WARREN IN THE MIDDLE—DAVIS, Calif., Nov. 12—Bob Warren, son of the U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren, watches his coach, Will Lotter, demonstrate a grip on the ball at the local branch of the University of California. He's a 205-pound senior center and has been a regular since his freshman year.

Minors Propose Ending Bonus, Opening Up Draft

Marines Will Release Robinson; Bomar, Tinsley in Hall of Fame

From Press Dispatches

Baseball's minor leagues will carry three major proposed amendments with them to the meetings of the majors and minors Dec. 1-8 in Colorado Springs, Colo. They would end the limit on major league draft, kill the bonus rule and provide a substitute.

According to the first amendment, every player who has been in the minor leagues four or more years would be subject to unrestricted draft.

The proposal to end the "bonus rule" under which any major team which gives a prospect $4,000 or more must keep the player on its roster for at least two years, was proposed by Houston of the Texas League. Absence of the rule would permit any major league club to make a prospect any offer it chooses.

But the third proposal — from Nashville of the Southern Assn.— would call for major league selection in a separate draft of all first-year players in the minors. A minimum price of $15,000 would be set.

MORE BASEBALL—Frank Robinson, Cincinnati outfielder now with the Marines for six months of duty, will be released from the service within a few days because of a weak arm.

FOOTBALL—Six players, Lynn Bomar of Vanderbilt, Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State, Bill Corbus of Stanford, Frank Cariedo of Notre Dame, Erny Pinckert of Southern Cal, and Felix Blanchard of Army, and 10 coaches—Dr. Eddie Anderson, Mike Donahue, Don Faurot, Richard Harlow, D. Gator Bowl officials indicated they will watch the Ole Miss-Tennessee, Arkansas-Southern Methodist, Texas Christian-Texas and Vanderbilt-Florida games this week to further narrow down their selection list. Other teams in the running, they say, are Mississippi State, Miami and Texas A&M. . . . The NFL will hold its preliminary college player draft Dec. 2 at Philadelphia, Pa.

notified him on Oct. 16 that he was through as general manager, a position he had held since 1950. He attended today's meeting in his capacity as a director.

Cleveland board members quoted Lane as saying he fully approved of the selection of Bragan as field manager.

Lane told a newsman here by telephone that it was "premature to talk deals."

"When I get to Cleveland," he said, "I want to talk to Hank Greenberg. The ultimate decisions will be made by Bragan and Lane."

August A. Busch, brewery owner and president of the Cardinals, said he was amazed Lane would leave the Cardinals and described the switch as "a completely astounding situation up to the last minute."

"I was aghast at stories in the newspapers reporting Lane was going," Busch said, "and I called up Frank at his office this morning and asked him what the score was. He said that he had made a proposition to Cleveland and that if Cleveland accepted, he was duty-bound to accept it."

Hint to Ace Hunters – Retire Like Wilson

By Bert Prather

Wilby R. Wilson, 68 years young, had been trying all his golfing life to move the ball from tee to cup with one perfect stroke of the club. Last week at Ansley Golf Club, where he spends a great deal of his time now that he's retired, Wilby finally realized his ambition.

Bert Prather

Using a two wood (Wilby doesn't get the distance he formerly did), he knocked the eyes out of the cup on the 170-yard 12th hole (it was his second time around this nine-hole course) as partners Dr. Allen Davis, Bob Redfern and Dr. C. L. Chandler led the cheers and joined him in a little jig.

For most folks who play this course, they're so intent on keeping the ball away from the railroad tracks which border No. 3 on the right that they are satisfied to hit the green.

Mrs. Walter Beard, president of Atlanta Women's Golf Assn., was all smiles as she handed over a check to the Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund Tuesday. Louise Suggs, former president of Ladies Professional Golfers' Assn., accepted the check on behalf of the fund. The money was obtained by taking a cut out of blind bogey tourneys staged along with regular AWGA play days during the past season. Mrs. Beard says she hopes other Atlanta and State golf associations will follow this lead next year.

Presentation of the check followed AWGA's annual turkey tourney at Capital City Country Club. Turkey winners were: Mrs. E. L. Chipman, Mrs. Ed Callaham, Mrs. L. L. Hamilton, Mrs. Robert Cornell, Mrs. Dave Warner and Frances Young.

CHIP SHOTS: Mrs. A. C. Robinson Jr., is new prexy of North Fulton Women's Golf Assn. Fellow officers are Mrs. Frank Allman, (secretary), Mrs. Robert Vandenbergh Jr., (treasurer) and Mrs. F. A. Newcomb (tourney chairman) . . . Mrs. Teddy Hayes was winner of first NFWGA winter playday with gross 87. Mrs. Robinson won low net with 74. . . . Mid-Georgia Women's GA convenes Thursday at North Fulton. . . . Charlie Miller, new head of Atlanta's PGA, and his Druid Hills GC will be host to a pro-am Thursday. . . . Wednesday will be big day for Druid Hills WGA. The ladies will team with their favorite male partners for a turkey tournament in the afternoon and then crown their "Golfer of the Year" at annual trophy night dinner. . . . The Harvie Wards (he's former U.S. Amateur champion and she is the former Suzanne Smith of Atlanta) have a son. The blond youngster was named Daniel Ashford.

Marion McKinley and Joe O'Conner led Ewing Pomeroy's Ansley GC turkey meet with a score of minus nine. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moon Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bankston, Frances Young and Bobby Pomeroy all tied with minus 11 to take the remaining birds. . . . Charley Sifford became the first Negro to win a big-time pro golf tourney when he beat Eric Monti in a playoff for top money in the $11,500 Long Beach Open Sunday. The victory was worth $1,200 to the Philadelphian. . . . Patty Berg has again captured Golf Digest trophy for being the most consistent performer in women's pro golf. Senators Pick Up 'Free Agent' Korcheck

By AL THOMY

Husky Steve Korcheck finds his major league targets cut out for him as he packs his duffle bag and leaves his Army days behind at Fort McPherson on Wednesday. There's nothing easy about his re adjustment to the ways of the Washington Senators' catching corps. . . . First, after four days at home in Pennsylvania, he must spend 30 days in Washington undergoing therapy for a broken left wrist, suffered in the Third Army tournament. Secondly, he must beat out the likes of Lou Berberet, Clint Courtney and Ed FitzGerald before he can make the Senators' roster. The former George Washington football great spent most of the '55 season at Chattanooga before playing 25 games for the Senators. . . . "I hit .280 for Washington and I really believe I can make the team," he said. Should he fail to break up the Berberet-Courtney-FitzGerald gang, Chattanooga will have gained an aggressive receiver for its season.

Al Thomy

MINUTE PROFILE: Harmon Killebrew, a bonus boy who may return the favor. They said Killebrew couldn't play third base in the major league, but now Washington thinks so highly of the Chattanooga slugger they're willing to peddle old reliable Eddie Yost and try Killebrew at the hot corner. Senators were impressed with Harmon's Mickey Mantle-type home runs during late stages of the season. Yost should bring a fortune on the market.

Add returning servicemen: Gair Allie, one-time New Orleans shortstop, has been sprung and will join Pittsburgh for spring training. Question remains: After Dick Groat's great season, where will Allie play? . . . Baltimore's Paul Richards has asked Stone Mountain's Connie Johnson to report in mid-February for early pitching lessons. Johnson is considered ace of Oriole staff. . . . From mound to mike. Temperamental Russ Meyer, Nashville right-hander who's called it quits, takes over a sports show in his hometown outside Chicago. He had hoped to join Jack Brickhouse on White Sox TV games, but deal fell through. . . . Talk is that Wichita's Ben Geraghty is best bet to become Milwaukee's next manager. He's in line for a coaching post on the club now. . . . Greensboro, N.C., put in its bid for Milwaukee's Class B representative after Evansville pulled out, but refused to become the No. 2 B club and signed with the Yankees instead. . . . Quote: "The best news I've had since we won the series is that Whitlow Wyatt is coming to the Braves as coach."—Frank Torre, ex-Atlanta first baseman.

Harmon Killebrew

Russ Meyer

Each pitcher has his worst batting enemy, and Whitlow Wyatt and Taylor Phillips disclosed theirs at Douglasville the other night. Said Whit: "I couldn't get Lonnie Frey or Stan Hack out." Said Taylor: "This Ed Bouchee (Phillies) hit me like he owned me." . . . Former Cracker Dick Donovan says he'd rather face Mickey Mantle than Ted Williams. "Mantle is a tough hitter but he can be fooled; Williams has no weaknesses." . . . The Miami Marlins of the International League have purchased journeyman pitcher Earl Mossor, a Cracker at times, from Tulsa. . . . Wichita's Ray Shearer was named American Assn., rookie of the year, and of course, Geraghty was the top manager. . . . Lefty Dick Stigman (Mobile) is one of the top pitchers in the Mexican Pacific Coast League. . . . Add winter league players: Art Fowler, Hy Cohen (Memphis) and Al Lary (Memphis) are pitching in the Puerto Rican League, and Jack Baumer (Mobile) infields in the Venezuelan. . . . Karl Spooner, one-time Brooklyn ace who sore-armed at Macon in '57, says he is ready for major league action again. . . . Add quotes: "I like this young outfielder Don Lassetter (Newnan) and the way he takes a cut at the ball."—Frank Lane, Cardinal GM who shifted to Cleveland Tuesday. Lassetter's given excellent chance to stick in St. Louis.

What To Do About Inflation

Buying Real Estate Is Risky For Average Small Investor

This is the second of a three-part series touching on some of the many types of investments the saver might turn to for protection against rising inflation.

By BOB WILLIMON
Constitution Business Writer

The term "real estate" likely crops up in most every conversation about how to protect one's savings against rising inflation.

Fine, for the moderately well-to-do investor or the "man who knows what he's doing," say several Atlanta economists and investment men.

SMALL INVESTOR

Baloney, as far as the "average small investor" is concerned, they hasten to add.

That is, in terms of investment in real estate over and above home ownership. As previously noted, home ownership was regarded in some instances as both a "basic" and a form of protection against inflation.

Before we get into real estate, however, perhaps it is best to recap a little bit about what we're up to.

OFFER ANSWERS

The object of this series is to offer informed answers to the following question which may, or may not be on the minds of many Americans:

What can a man do with his savings that will best protect his family against rising inflation?

In Sunday's article, the surveys recommended against buying diamonds or other precious items solely for the purpose of preserving purchasing power in times of inflation.

Such activity was regarded as impracticable except for experts and the very wealthy, and justifiable then only in countries with unstable governments and economies. As one expert put it, there's no reason to "run" from U.S. money.

TERM DEFINED

Real estate is not for the average "small investor," the surveyees generally agreed. The term "small investor" was loosely defined by two of the investment men as meaning folks having at least $25,000 to invest. (If you've got $50,000 or more to invest you should retain private investment counsel, said a third.)

"Of course, if he buys 'em (real estate items) well, and it takes a specialist to know when such buying is well, then he may do all right. Generally, I would not recommend this field for the small investor."

EXPERTS AGREE

All the surveyees agreed that a small investor should not "get into" real estate because in so doing he is violating both of what one of them termed "the two prime prerequisites of sound investment—liquidity and diversification."

Meaning of course, that most real property normally cannot be quickly converted into hard cash in an emergency without taking less than you want for it. It thus isn't too "liquid."

Also, when a small investor puts his money into real estate, he probably gets only one piece of property. All of his eggs are thus in one basket.

His "risk" isn't spread or "diversified," as it would be if he bought, say, varied common stocks, said one man.

Other considerations indicating that real estate is not for the small investor desiring to put his money in something that will keep pace value-wise with rising inflation:

The best quality real estate (i.e., "very large" downtown office buildings and well-situated shopping centers selling for millions of dollars) isn't available to small investors, said one surveyee. Although he added that the fairly recent development of real estate syndicates now make possible investments of this type in "units" as low as $5,000 to $10,000, he pointed out that even this is for the "moderately wealthy."

Another objection to real estate is that the small investor may put his money in suburban acreage (or a house or store) only to have it drastically devalued due to zoning changes or to the city's development in another direction.

The investor may buy property in anticipation of having the expressway come by it only to later see the facility put up two miles away, noted one expert.

be managed. It has to be rented or leased, kept in good repair and the taxes must be paid on it.

There also is the matter of insurance to pay—fire, liability, etc.

Inflation or no inflation, apparently.

A Private Nuclear Plant For Dixie Seen by 1962

CHARLOTTE, N.C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Carolinas Virginia Nuclear Power Associates, Inc., announced here today that they plan to put the Southeast's first privately owned nuclear power plant into operatoin by 1962.

The nuclear-electric generating plant will be built by the firm at Parr Shoals on the Broad River about 25 miles north of Columbia, S.C., officials said.

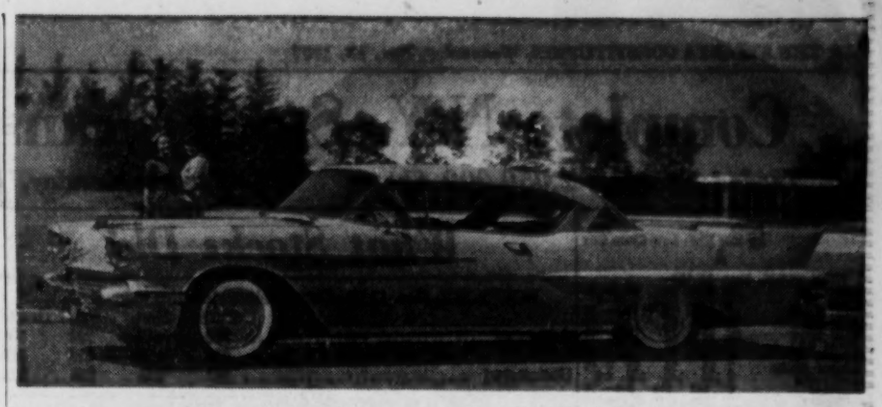

It is expected to cost about 17 million dollars.

The site is adjacent to South Carolina Electric & Gas Co.'s Parr Shoals combination hydro-steam electric generating plants in the southwest corner of Fairfield County.

Construction of the nuclear plant will begin when the four-company group's proposal is approved by the Atomic Energy Commission and a special congressional committee and a contract is consummated with AEC.

CVNPA's plant proposal, which is now before the AEC, calls for a prototype heavy - water - cooled and heavy-water-moderated pressure-tube type reactor, utilizing slightly enriched uranium. The plant's electrical capacity is expected to be between 15,000 and 20,000 kilowatts.

'57 Crops Expected to Equal Peak

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 —The Agriculture Department said today crop production this year is still expected to equal past records despite unfavorable weather during October.

Its latest survey indicates that the crop volume will be 106 per cent of the 1947-49 average, to equal the previous record set in 1948 and matched last year.

The department said that had weather been more favorable, this year's volume might have set a new record.

Production estimates are higher than a month ago for corn, sorghum grain, soybeans, rice, fall potatoes, tobacco, sugar beets, sweet potatoes and apples.

The indicated yield per acre and total production, respectively, of important Georgia crops included:

Corn, 25 and 65,750,000 (bushels); tobacco, 1,301 and 83,385,000 (pounds); peanuts, 925 and 487,475,000 (pounds); pecans (production only), 10,300,000 pounds, and sweet potattoes, 47 and 611,000 (hundredweight).

The state pecan crop this year was estimated at 10,300,000 pounds compared with last year's 60,000,000 pounds. This year's peanut crop was set at about 487,475,000 pounds. Georgia produced 568,980,000 pounds in 1955.

The USDA estimated this year's flue-cured tobacco crop will be the smallest in 14 years. It estimated a national flue-cured output of 990,000,000 pounds.

The department blamed the crop declines on bad weather and heavy insect infestations.

The Georfgia corn crop will increase slightly, the department said. This year's state corn production is estimated at 65,750,000 bushels compared to last year's 65,064,000 bushels.

'58 Cadillac Features Longer, Lower Look

A longer, lower appearance, stemming mainly from longer fenders and longer hood, an unusual grille and a redesigned tail fin, mark Cadillac's 1958 line of cars.

Appearance changes include: A hood 5.3 inches longer than in 1957 models; wider and longer front fenders with a crown molding as well as a side molding; the wider front fenders house a new four-headlamp system; the grille has a series of projectile-like protrusions that underline the broader front end appearance.

The tail fin is described by Cadillac as emphasizing the "going away" look. It sweeps slightly upward and slants inward from its extreme rear tip.

IMPROVED SUSPENSION

Cadillac announces an improved suspension system using a four-link rear coupling on all models. It is adaptable to either coil suspension which is standard, or optional air suspension. There is also a lift valve feature permitting the driver to pull the control handle and raise the car an additional five inches for ease in traversing steep ramps or driveways.

The V-8 engines have 10.25 to 1 compression ratio. One is a 310 horsepower engine and another a 335 horsepower unit. The latter, standard on the Eldorado, is optional at extra cost on the remainder of the line. It uses three two-barrel carburetors.

Included among 12 models in the 62 series is a new extended deck sedan. It has substantially more trunk space and an additional 8.5 inches in over-all length.

BIG WHEELBASE

Wheelbases range from 126 inhes for the Eldorado Brougham to 129.5 inches for most other models excepting the Fleetwood Series 60 at 133 inches and the fleetwood Series 75 at 149.75 inches.

Over-all lengths range from 216.8 inches in the 62 Series sedan to 225.3 inches in the 62 Series Sedan de Ville, excepting in the Fleetwood 75, which has an over-all length of 237.1 inches and is 61.6 inches in height.

WARNER ROBINS

Lockheed C130 Work Is Shifted

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. said Tuesday the Air Force has announced transfer of prime responsibility for production and modification of the C130 Hercules to the Warner Robins Materiel Area.

Previously, prime responsibility for the C130, which Lockheed produces at its Marietta plant, has been with the Sacramento, Calif., Air Materiel Area. The transfer will be effective Jan. 1.

The company also quoted Maj. Gen. A. V. P. Anderson Jr., WRAMA commander, as announcing that the Warner Robins Air Materiel Area also will assume prime responsibility for gas turbine and gasoline engines, groundhandling equipment and all Air Force vehicles.

Lockheed also announced Tuesday that a new version of the Hercules, the RC130A, will be used by Air Force photo-mapping units. It said 15 of the new version of the four-engine pro-jet aircraft have been allocated to the 1370th Photo Mapping Group based at West Palm Beach, Fla.

New Plane Complete

BURBANK, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—One month ahead of a tight production schedule, Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's first prop-jet Electra for commercial airline use rolled off the assembly line yesterday. The first test flight was scheduled Jan. 31, 1958, but may be moved up.

The plane is 104½ feet long, has a wingspan of 99 feet and is equipped with four 3,750-horsepower engines with four-bladed propellers. It carries 66 to 91 passengers.

Prices Seen As Half of Farm Plight

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Farmers are being squeezed between low prices for the things they produce and high costs for the goods and services they buy, Dr. O. B. Jesness, Director Emeritus of the University of Minnesota Department of Agricultural Economics, said here.

Low prices, by themselves, are not the cause of the farmers' plight, he said at the 49th annual meeting of Grocery Manufacturers of America, Inc. Therefore, he added, price support programs are not the remedy.

"The cause lies in a capacity to produce in some lines of agriculture which has outrun the willingness of markets to absorb except at prices unacceptable to farmers," Dr. Jesness said. The major reason for this overexpanded capacity, he said, is "The revolution in agricultural technology and mechanization which has stepped up productivity at an amazing rate."

Sugar Futures

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—World sugar futures advanced today, reflecting a fairly good spot demand for world raws, uncertainty whether political disturbances will upset the next Cuban crop harvest, and the relief that there is very little unsold old Cuban crop sugar for the world market. Israel was scheduled to come into the market for 10,000 tons of raw or refined sugar for December-January shipment.

Most Grains Close Lower

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Wheat futures ended steady today but other grains and soybeans closed lower.

Nearby wheat contracts finished fractionally higher, influenced by firm cash markets and expectations of an increase in export demand. The distant July and September wheat deliveries were off fractions, however, reflecting outlook for a big crop in the winter wheat belt next year.

Rye showed greatest weakness, declining under liquidation.

Corn and soybean futures broke late in the session, with prices down around a cent a bushel on both commodities as traders sought to even up commitments prior to issuance of a government crop report which came out after the market closed.

Early in the session, corn was down slightly on reports that the long overdue harvest was expanding. On the late break in prices corn futures hit new lows for the season on most deliveries.

Lint Upturn Fails to Hold

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Cotton futures were irregular today with some months losing ground in the final half hour of trading due to increased profit taking and hedging. Final prices were $1.10 a bale higher to 15 cents lower.

The upturn, which at one time had extended to $1.75 a bale, was sparked by continued unfavorable weather in important areas of the belt which pointed to further crop losses in volume and quality. All current crop deliveries established new seasonal peaks.

New crop futures lagged on the upturn and dipped under the previous close near the final trading bell. There was some selling on the theory that the tightening situation in the current crop picture might lead to some relaxation of federal restrictions on the size of the 1958 crop.

Train Crash Injures 13 at Dunkerque

DUNKERQUE, France, Nov. 12 (UP)—Thirteen persons were injured, five of them critically, when three cars of the Calais-Basel express train jumped the tracks near here today.

Railway officials said the derailment occurred 12 miles south of Dunkerque, after the express and a shuttling locomotive collided.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Double
3 spades	3 no trump	4 spades	5 clubs
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

South thought he could postpone the heart finesse until the last possible moment in today's hand. He was wrong and even the correct placement of the queen proved insufficient to avoid a one trick set.

West opened the bidding with one spade and East scratched up a raise to two. South's double is proper. A bid of three clubs might result in the loss of a game if North happened to have four reasonably good hearts.

West raised to three spades, with the idea of barricading North, North's bid of three no trump was, of course, highly enterprising, but not far out of line. An ace, a king and a jack represent considerable values when partner has doubled at the level of two. Observe that a three no trump contract could have been fulfilled.

East decided to take the save at four spades which could have been set only one trick. South persisted to the minor suit game and all hands subsided.

West opened the king of spades which was won in dummy. Trumps were drawn at once and declarer attacked hearts by leading low to the king. On the return he finessed the jack which held, but he could not return to dummy to repeat the finesse and when the queen failed to drop he was down one.

Declarer should have realized from the start that he might have to finesse twice to pick up the queen and shouldn't have wasted his first lead from dummy by playing a trump. The heart should have been tried at once. When it succeeded, trumps could be drawn and the king of hearts would provide entry to dummy for another finesse.

Observe that the finesse of the heart is suggested against East. If it is projected against West, it will succeed only if hearts are 3-3. Whereas, four to the queen of hearts can be picked up if East has them.
